

WOMAN'S STORY OF LOSING $33,000 TO SWINDLE GANG

Says at Elgin, Ill., That George M. Lindsay, Diploma Fraud Suspect, Got Her Liberty Bonds.

HE IS IN JAIL IN DEFAULT OF BAIL

Polished Manners and "Extremely Businesslike" Methods Mentioned in Account by the Victim.

The polished manners of George M. Lindsay, former president of the City College of Law and Finance in St. Louis, so impressed Miss Laura Penney of Elgin, Ill., that she turned over $33,000 in Liberty bonds and other securities to him and his associates, who promised to aid her in recovering investment losses.

Lindsay, who is under Federal indictment in St. Louis on a charge of conspiracy to defraud by misuse of the mails in the sale of faked diplomas and licenses to practice medicine and chiropractic, was turned over to the Sheriff of Kane County at Chicago yesterday to answer a charge of swindling Miss Penney. Held with Lindsay in the Kane County jail, in default of $30,000 bond, is Ralph Becker, alias William Bennett, charged with participating in the alleged confidence game.

Account of Experiences.
Miss Penney, a former school teacher, told her experiences to a Post-Dispatch reporter over the telephone today.

"There were six men in all, and the first called on me last October," Miss Penney said. "He explained that he represented a group of holders of S. W. Straus & Co. bonds and that they had a plan to buy Straus company properties and group out losses. Other men called, including Mr. Becker, or William, who seemed to be the principal figure. I had Straus & Co. bonds, which I turned over to them."

Then Mr. Lindsay, who introduced himself as Mr. Livingston, and for the group, visited my home with one of the other men. They said they planned to buy the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, which they described as a money-maker, and needed funds.

Mr. Livingston or Lindsay, was very clever and polished. His description of what was proposed was convincing, and I turned over my Liberty bonds. To show their good faith the men gave me deeds to one land in Michigan."

Miss Penney said Lindsay and his associates were "extremely businesslike." They made only short calls discussing their plans easily and quickly and explaining that they were very busy traveling around the country by airplane and automobile in perfecting their plans," Miss Penney said.

Seizure of Other Suspect.
The arrest of Becker in Chicago a month ago with $10,000 worth of Miss Penney's Liberty bonds in his possession, led to the exposing of the swindle, said George T. Carberry, State Attorney of Kane County.

Miss Penney identified Becker as a man who later she identified as a photograph of Lindsay as the likeness of the polished Mr. Livingston. Lindsay appeared in Federal Court here Monday and gave bond of $15,000 in the conspiracy indictment, and was arrested by Illinois authorities on leaving the Federal Building. The swindle charge will be presented to the Kane County grand jury next Monday.

Louis M. Howe Failing.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 20.—The condition of Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, was reported in a White House bulletin at 11 a. m. today as follows: "The condition of Secretary Howe is extremely critical. His strength is steadily failing." Mrs. Roosevelt attended all engagements to remain at his bedside. Mrs. Howe also attended. Howe has been troubled from bronchial trouble complicated by cardiac developments.

ROOSEVELT WANTS TO SAVE THE PROFIT SYSTEM, DERN SAYS

Secretary Tells Miami Beach
Group of Hopes to Cut Out Abuses.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 20.—Secretary of War George H. Dern assured several hundred assembled business, industrial and social leaders last night that one of the two major purposes of the President and his Cabinet is to save the American profit system "by purging it of its most flagrant abuses."

The other goal, he said, is to restore the people to prosperity, and the two objectives lie parallel. The occasion was the annual banquet of the Committee of One Hundred, a social organization of the prominent and wealthy.

Classifying himself as a business man "who believes in the profit system and thinks it is not incompatible with social justice," Dern declared:

"Nobody in authority is trying to change our form of government or our economic system. . . . Social reform and social progress must be linked with an interest in the welfare of legitimate business."

HUNDREDS OF FARMERS INVADE WISCONSIN'S SENATE CHAMBER

They Demand Compulsory Mediation and Jury Trial in Foreclosure Cases.

MADISON, Wis., March 20.—Several hundred farmers invaded the State Senate today to demand approval of the Assembly's bill for compulsory mediation and jury trial in foreclosure cases.

The Senate voted to sit as a committee of the whole this morning to hear their demands. Simultaneously the Senate adopted a resolution permitting the registration of all farmers who face immediate foreclosure and directing the chief clerk to wire a request to Circuit Court Judges that all foreclosure actions be held in abeyance until the legislature enacts a moratorium law.

The farmers, were accompanied by their wives and children, and those who could not get into the Senate galleries were given access to the standing room in the Chamber.

NO OPEN HEARINGS IN POLICE COURT IN 19 PCT. OF CASES

Of 1811 in One Week 347
Are Disposed of Without Regular Appearance at Bench.

PENALTIES AVOIDED
IN 274 OF THEM

Mayor Announces He Will Form Voluntary Patrol of 10,000 Citizens to Report Violations.

Out of 1811 cases in the Police Courts last week, 347, or 19 per cent, were not heard in open court, and no penalties were imposed in 274 of the cases disposed of outside the courtroom, Mayor Dickmann was told yesterday.

In the remaining 73 cases not heard in open court, fines aggregating $310, or an average of $4.24 each, were ordered.

The Mayor said he would call on Police Judges Simpson and Vest, his appointees, to explain why so many cases had been handled out of court and so few penalties imposed in them. He has started a campaign to reduce traffic accidents and enforce the traffic code strictly, and has declared he would not countenance the "fixing" of traffic charges to lighten or avoid penalties for favored defendants.

Mayor Submits Figures.
The Mayor submitted these figures on the disposition of last week's Police Court cases this afternoon to a mass meeting in the Municipal Auditorium, called to lend impetus to the traffic safety movement.

He announced that he proposed to create a Citizens' Patrol of at least 10,000 persons to report traffic violations which they observe. Members of the patrol would be asked to notify police immediately when a major violation was committed in their presence and to submit other reports on official forms with which they will be provided.

"It is not asking too much," the Mayor said, "to insist that a private citizen who knows of an offense should come forward and assist in the administration of the law by telling what he knows."

Committee to Be Named.
A committee will be appointed, the Mayor announced, to trace the disposition of all cases of traffic violations, from arrest to final disposition. It will consist of City Traffic Engineer Gontier, Andy Reis, prosecutor in Judge Simpson's court; Frank Motherway, prosecutor in Judge Vest's court; and Raymond R. Tucker, secretary of the Mayor.

Dickmann said he wanted to learn the identity of defendants whose cases were not called in court and whether other persons requested leniency for them. It has been a practice of politicians to intercede in many traffic cases, seeking to "fix" the charges.

"I meant what I said when I called for disposition of cases on their merits," the Mayor declared.

Record in Each Court.
The report by the City Counselor showed that 227 of 1102 cases in Judge Simpson's division last week were not heard in open court, and that no penalties were imposed in 187 of the 227 cases, while there were fines totaling $150 in the other 40 instances. The report showed that in Judge Vest's division 120 of 709 cases were not called in open court, and that there were no penalties in 87 of the 120 cases, while there were fines amounting to $100 in the other 33.

Asked about the situation by a Post-Dispatch reporter, Judge Simpson said, "It's news to me," adding that he did not know whether the report was correct. He refused to say whether any persons had requested leniency for defendants from him, and concluded: "I'll not make any statement until I have a talk with the Mayor."

Statement by Vest.
Judge Vest asserted that he tried all cases on their merits, either in open court or in chambers. He explained that he was willing to hear some cases in chambers as a convenience to persons such as, for instance, milkmen, who were in a hurry to get away. Since the Police Judges' chambers are not readily accessible in Municipal Courts Building, he was asked how defendants found their way to his office.

"They come in with somebody," he said. Asked whether politicians brought defendants in, he replied, "Oh, I don't know; just people generally." He insisted that he would not allow "any third party" to hand him a traffic summons and tell him to "take care of it," although he might allow a defendant's representative to pay a fine in a minor traffic case.

Representatives of more than 500 civic, fraternal and other organizations met today to disperse an election meeting in the village of Endrot near Bekas-Csaba.

KANSAS CITY DUST CUTS VISIBILITY TO ONLY TWO BLOCKS

St. Louis and Illinois Will Get the Dirt Tonight, Weather Man There Says.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 20.—Dust clouds were carried by high winds in Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska today. The darkness was so great in many sections that schools were closed and traffic and out-of-doors activities suspended. The storm interfered with telephone and telegraph lines in Western Kansas. At Hollis, Ok., visibility was limited to less than two blocks. Trains out of Newton, Kan., stood idle. Salina, Kan., reported freight movement suspended. At Hoxie, Kan., ditching machines were sent out to clear railroad tracks.

Schools at Great Bend, Hoisington and Salina, Kan., were closed. The dust storm moved into Western Missouri about noon, shrouding Kansas City, St. Joseph, Maryville and other border cities.

The dust reduced visibility in Kansas City to less than two city blocks. The airports reported wind gusty and at times reaching a velocity of 40 miles an hour. All airplane schedules were canceled here.

Andrew M. Hamrick, Government meteorologist, said: "A wind from the Southwest will carry the dust over Missouri and Iowa and into Illinois. St. Louis and Illinois will get the dust tonight."

WOMAN CARRYING $173,000 IN HOSPITAL FOR OBSERVATION

Wife of Hammond (Ind.) Newspaper Publisher Taken from Train at Battle Creek, Mich.

By the Associated Press.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 20.—A woman about 60 years old, who carried a black bag containing $173,505 in currency and rings, brooches and watches in a jewel box, was taken from a Grand Trunk train here today and admitted to a hospital for observation. Officers said she gave her name as Mrs. Isabel McHie of Hammond, Ind.

The name of Sidmon McHie, Hammond, Ind., appeared in papers she carried. A Hammond dispatch said she is the wife of Sidmon McHie, newspaper publisher, there, that at his office it was said divorce proceedings were pending, and that on last Sept. 10, Mrs. McHie filed suit in Federal Court asking for a property settlement. It was said McHie had made a settlement. McHie is publisher of the Hammond Times and the Lake County Times.

TWO AMERICANS KIDNAPED FOR RANSOM IN MEXICO

Mark Fowler and Louis F. Vremsack, Both of Santa Barbara, Cal., Seized in Zacatecas.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., March 20.—The Foreign Office and the American Embassy were exerting efforts today to obtain the release of two Americans kidnaped recently in Zacatecas.

The men are Mark Fowler and Louis F. Vremsack of Santa Barbara, Cal. Fowler was abducted in Jalpa, Zacatecas, March 15, and Vremsack in Huchipila, of the same State, March 12.

Whether they were taken by the same band had not been established. Ten thousand pesos (less than $3000) was asked for Fowler's release and today fixed as the final date for payment. The kidnapers threatened to kill their prisoner if their demand was denied.

Federal troops, it was reported, have been sent in pursuit of the abductors.

MARTIN INSULT TO BE DEPORTED TO CANADA FRIDAY

Reason Given Is That He Might Become a Public Charge in U. S.

DETROIT, Mich., March 20.—Immigration officers announced today that Martin J. Insull, who once handled millions, will be deported here Friday "because he might become a public charge."

The 69-year-old brother of Samuel Insull will be excluded under a deportation order issued last March, when he was brought across the border from Canada to stand trial in Chicago on an embezzlement charge.

Martin Insull is a British subject. Immigration officers said he would arrive here Friday. He will be escorted across the Detroit River to Windsor, Ontario.

SENATE VOTES $40,000,000 FOR STATE SCHOOLS

Approves Works Bill Amendment to Continue Terms, Curtailment of Which Is Threatened.

LUMP SUM ROAD GRANTS ACCEPTED

Borah's Proposal Against Creating New Agencies for Public Improvements Is Adopted.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The Senate today adopted an amendment to the $48,800,000 relief bill earmarking $40,000,000 for allocation to states to maintain public schools for the remainder of the present fiscal year. The vote was 55 to 25.

Senator Cutting (Rep.), New Mexico, who offered the amendment, said a preliminary survey had shown that, unless Federal aid were given, 3,500,000 pupils would have to quit school in 28 states April 1 when 42,000 schools with 102,000 teachers would be forced to close.

Sensor Tydings (Dem.), Maryland, opposed the amendment. He said it was the duty of the states to maintain their own educational systems through adequate taxation, and large cities had been "penalized enough to keep schools open."

Sensor Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina, contended the Emergency Relief Administration already had authority to help the educational situation and with passage of the pending bill could supply the necessary funds to keep schools open.

Adopts Road Allotment.
The Senate also adopted an amendment to the bill to require all money for road construction to be apportioned in lump sums for expenditure by state highway departments and to eliminate the existing Federal aid law. The change was proposed by Senator Hayden (Dem.), Arizona, who said it would prohibit any of the fund being used for super-transcontinental and interstate expressways and would leave members of Congress free to "consult anybody in Washington about highway funds."

Previously, an amendment by Senator Schall (Rep.), Minnesota, to require liquidation of six Federal emergency corporations organized under the Federal Emergency Act, including the Emergency Public Works Leasing Corporation, was rejected by 69 to 10.

Two Amendments Approved.
The Senate accepted a proposal by Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, to discontinue all river and harbor, reclamation and public buildings projects be undertaken under the direction of the Government departments having supervision over such projects.

An amendment by Senator Robinson (Dem.), Tennessee, to require sanitary work to be done by contract, a modification of a broader clause along this line previously rejected, also was approved.

An amendment by Senator Neely (Dem.), West Virginia, to earmark $500,000,000 for construction and improvement of school buildings was rejected, 44 to 33.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Attempts will be made beginning today to saddle the administration's work relief bill with silver inflation and bond riders and to increase the amount of the appropriation but they are not taken seriously.

An attempt by Senator La Follette to increase the $48,800,000 appropriation to $100,000,000 is slated for debate today.

Leaders hope the bill will be passed tomorrow or Friday.

Among the other amendments awaiting action is the silver inflation proposal of Senator Thomas (Dem.), Oklahoma, providing: (1) Mandatory purchase of silver at the rate of not less than 50,000,000 ounces a month, until silver becomes one-quarter of the metallic reserves behind the currency, or until the price reaches $1.29 an ounce; (2) Issuance of new silver certificates against the silver bullion at its monetary value, the certificates to be placed in circulation immediately by paying maturing obligations of the Government; (3) Instructions to the Secretary of the Treasury to keep all silver certificates in circulation by reselling them when they are turned in.

Efforts to Cut Fund Beaten.
The last serious threat to the bill was frustrated yesterday when the Senate, by votes of 87 to 30, rejected two amendments by Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado—one to cut the appropriation to $2,880,000,000, the other to limit the period

AAA CALLS OFF RESTRICTIONS ON "SPRING WHEAT"

Those Who Agreed to Cut Acreage 10 Pct. Need
Not Do So, but May Make Compensating Reduction Next Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The AAA lifted restrictions today on the planting of spring wheat. The action, announced by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, will allow farmers who had agreed to reduce production by 10 per cent to plant their full acreage this spring and compensate for it by a larger cut in acreage in 1936.

Wallace said the action was intended to avoid reductions in yield and possible importations of wheat resulting "from possible recurrence of drought in several of the major wheat-producing states, where rainfall and sub-soil moisture are still sub-normal."

He added that the change would not apply to corn plantings, pointing out that the drought prospects at present do not threaten the corn-growing areas.

Long Accused of Sending PROPAGANDA UNDER FRANK

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—A letter asserting Senator Huey Long violated his free postage privilege by sending "Share-Our-Wealth Society" material through the mail under congressional frank to Graydon Stetson of Boston, Mass., is to be sent to the Postoffice Department from the Department of Justice.

Stetson sent what he said was Long's publicity to Attorney-General Cummings and asked if the Louisiana Senator had violated the law. Cummings' aids in the Department of Justice replied they could not render opinions except to the President or department heads. But they indicated the purported evidence would be sent to postal inspectors, who work under Postmaster-General Farley.

"UNNECESSARY FOR

Asked to Give Solution, He Declares Something Like Socialistic System Might Bring Proper Distribution of Wealth.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Before an obviously sympathetic audience, Clarence Darrow, the chairman of the National Recovery Review Board which spent four months last year investigating the National Recovery Administration, declared today that the National Recovery Act had increased the concentration of wealth in the hands of the few and urged that the NRA be abolished.

The celebrated Chicago criminal lawyer, now 77 years old, gave his views to the Senate Finance Committee which is investigating the NRA under a resolution introduced by Senators Nye (Rep.) and McCarran (Dem.), and is at the same time considering President Roosevelt's demand that the National Industrial Recovery Act be extended two more years. Unless affirmative action is taken by Congress, the NRA will expire June 16.

An Impressive Reception.
No witness at a Congressional hearing has been given such an impressive reception as Darrow received since J. P. Morgan testified at the Senate Wall Street investigation. Long before the session started a queue formed at the committee room door. The committee room was packed before Darrow made his entrance shortly after 10 a. m. After he took his place in the witness chair, the hearing was stopped for about 10 minutes while a score of photographers exploded their flashes or focused their fast lens cameras.

Darrow was accompanied by Charles Edward Russell, the writer who is credited with much of the famous "Darrow report" of last summer, and Lowell Mason, secretary of the now defunct Review Board. Close to Darrow's chair was Donald R. Richberg, executive director of the National Emergency Council and former general counsel of the NRA.

Richberg, a close friend of Darrow for many years, has been the principal defender of the NRA at the committee hearings. Several times during his testimony, Darrow made sly jokes at Richberg's expense.

Opposed to 'Whole Theory.'
Darrow placed himself squarely in opposition to the "whole theory of the NRA" by asserting that "NRA was got up to help big business." He denied that it had raised wages of the working man and reluctantly admitted that it might have "precipitated" the elimination of child labor.

Asked whether he would not limit the activities of the NRA, he replied, "I would not only make them fewer, I'd abolish them altogether." At the close of his testimony, he said, in answer to a question by Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, that if it could be proved that the NRA had eliminated child labor and shortened working hours, he would keep those features of the act. Barkley and Costigan (Dem.), Colorado, were the only Senators who made any attempt to defend the Recovery Administration.

As in his famous reports, Darrow declared that the trouble in this world and in this country was the unequal distribution of wealth. He denied that there could be overproduction until the wants of all the

MEDICAL SOCIETY AWARD PRESENTED TO DR. E. A. DOISY

St. Louis U. Scientist Announces Discovery of Substance More Active Than Theelin.

Dr. Edward A. Doisy, professor of biochemistry at St. Louis University Medical School, reported to the St. Louis Medical Society last night, in accepting its medal and certificate of merit, that he had discovered a new substance four to eight times as active as theelin, the female sex hormone which he isolated six years ago.

The medal and certificate were presented to Dr. Doisy by Dr. Neil S. Moore, president of the society, in recognition of his research in the field of endocrinology. The award, for meritorious scientific contributions, was established 10 years ago. The last presentation, to four doctors jointly, was in 1927.

Dr. Doisy, in accepting the award, said he had come to regard an invitation to appear on the medical society's program as an omen of good fortune. It was shortly before his first participation in a program of the society, he recalled, that he had discovered and characterized theelin, a substance related to theelin which was isolated a year after theelin.

Tells of New Discovery.
"Tonight I am able to tell you," he added, "that within the past few months we have discovered and characterized and chemically isolated a new substance possessing oestrogenic properties similar to theelin but of different composition. The new derivative is four to eight times as active as theelin. We do not know much more about the other physiological reactions of the compound."

Dr. Doisy said he and his colleagues had extracted the new substance in crystalline form from almost two tons of animal tissue. The degree of concentration was indicated, he said, by the fact that one milligram of the new substance may be obtained from 350 pounds of the material.

Theelin, which Dr. Doisy isolated six years ago, has been used by physicians in the treatment of diseases of women.

Dr. Shaffer Reviews Work.
Before the medical society's award was presented to Dr. Doisy, Dr. Philip A. Shaffer, professor of chemistry at Washington University, commented on the career and achievements of the recipient. Dr. Doisy, he said, has to his credit a remarkable number of "bull's-eyes" in endocrine research, a subject which, he said, was probably more alluring and more bewildering than any other in medicine.

"It is work like his that has given us the only certain and dependable knowledge of the endocrine glands that we have," Dr. Shaffer said.

In reviewing Dr. Doisy's career, Dr. Shaffer mentioned that he was born in Illinois in 1893 and was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1914 with a degree in chemistry. Two years later he obtained his master's degree at that school and then went to Harvard Medical School as a graduate student. His studies were interrupted by war service, and after the war he joined the faculty of the Washington University Medical School, which he left in 1923 to go to the St. Louis University Medical School as professor of biological chemistry.

A symposium on various phases of endocrinology in which Dr. Alphonse McMahon, Dr. Daniel L. Sexton, Dr. August A. Werner and Dr. Louis Cohen participated, followed presentation of the award.

Health Campaign Indorsed.
The society adopted a resolution presented by Dr. H. I. Spector, indorsing the diphtheria immunization campaign to be conducted next month by the Health Department. Dr. Spector, who is Assistant Health Commissioner, said there were 961 cases of diphtheria in St. Louis last year and only 339 in Chicago. The rate of incidence of the disease in St. Louis, he said, is the highest in the country and the mortality rate is one of the highest. There were 38 diphtheria deaths in St. Louis last year, he said.

A resolution presented by Dr. John S. Young, chairman of the society's smoke abatement committee, offered the services of the society to the city in the effort to eliminate the smoke nuisance. There was objection, however, on the ground that the resolution should be published in the society's bulletin before it could be considered, and the matter was laid over for three weeks.

The resolution referred to the harmful effect of smoke in conditions such as tuberculosis, bronchitis, and infections of the upper respiratory tract. Some of those who spoke for the floor challenged the accuracy of these statements. Others mentioned the probable economic consequences in the nearby Illinois coal fields as reasons for delay in considering the resolution.

Teachers' Pension Loses Again.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 20—The House again defeated a resolution yesterday proposing to amend the State Constitution to permit the establishment of a teachers' pension system. The measure, which was introduced by Rep. J. W. H. Smith, was defeated by a vote of 71 to 66. The vote was 71 for and 66 against, and lacked five votes of the necessary constitutional majority of 76 for passage. The measure was defeated last week but was called up for reconsideration. Every teacher member of the House but one voted against the proposed amendment on both occasions.

BRINKMAN TELLS OF LOANS BY WIFE AND HER SISTERS

Beginning in 1916, Arena Promoter Testifies in Deposition, He Borrowed About $500,000.

Ben G. Brinkman, former operator of Forest Park Highlands, who went broke in promoting The Arena and recently was adjudged bankrupt in Miami, Fla., borrowed $500,000 from his wife and her sisters, Miss Anna and Miss Mathilda Doerr, beginning in 1916, and used the money in his business ventures, he testified in a deposition filed in Circuit Court yesterday.

His deposition was taken here last November in connection with an effort of the Twelfth Street National Bank to attach a fire insurance payment on his former summer home at Minocqua, Wis., under a $10,891 judgment on a promissory note made by him in 1931. The summer home, valued at about $25,000, was destroyed by fire May 5, 1932.

The money he said he borrowed from his wife and her two sisters came largely from bank stock they inherited from their father, Peter J. Doerr, a baker, who died in 1911. Brinkman testified. Additional sources of the loans, he said, were the proceeds of $35,000 insurance on the father-in-law's life and sums from "other sources."

Executor of Doerr Estate. Brinkman testified he was an executor of the Doerr estate and that the bank stock, which was in the Lafayette-South Side Bank, was carried in his name, explaining that as he received dividends his wife and sister-in-law loaned him their shares in the dividends, beginning in 1916, when the Lafayette Bank, of which he was president, was merged with the South Side Bank. In addition, he said, he sold "most" of the stock and used the proceeds for his "own purposes" with the consent of the Doerr sisters. He said he was unable to give the exact total of the loans, but estimated that "an accounting for all of it would run close to half a million dollars," not including interest.

The loans were not listed among liabilities totaling $536,760 as given in Brinkman's bankruptcy schedules. His assets, he said, were valued at $400, with $350 claimed as exempt. Among unsecured liabilities, totaling $641,750 as listed, was $200,000 due the estate of Edward W. Foristell, who was one of the city's best known attorneys and a power in Republican politics, on a promissory note made by Brinkman in 1931.

Transfer of Summer Home. Brinkman testified he turned over the Wisconsin summer home to his wife, Mrs. Marie Brinkman, in 1931 when they agreed to separate. Recently he has been living at Miami Beach.

"Mrs. Brinkman and I weren't getting along," he testified, "so I agreed to go my way and she agreed to go hers."

In a previous deposition, Mrs. Brinkman had testified that she always considered the summer home her estate. Mrs. Brinkman said she had "put up" some stock of the Lafayette-South Side Bank as a loan to her husband. Neither she nor Miss Mathilde Doerr, whose testimony also had been taken earlier last year, cited figures on Brinkman's indebtedness to them.

Claude McElwee, attorney for Mathilde Doerr, said the father left an estate valued at about $500,000.

Asked what connection she had with Brinkman's purchase of Forest Park Highlands from the Summer estate, Mrs. Brinkman said she had "put up" some stock of the Lafayette-South Side Bank as a loan to her husband. Neither she nor Miss Mathilde Doerr, whose testimony also had been taken earlier last year, cited figures on Brinkman's indebtedness to them.

INDEPENDENT WIRE COMPANIES OPPOSE FEDERAL REGULATION

Telephone Concerns to Present Arguments Before Communications Board Monday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, March 20.—Fight of independent telephone companies against Federal regulation, on the ground they are not engaged in interstate business, will open Monday before the Federal Communications Commission.

Though the vast majority will be represented by the United States Independent Telephone Association, through Alfred L. Geiger, counsel, several individual companies have filed briefs. The hearing is the result of commission rulings that many companies which maintain they are engaged solely in intrastate traffic, are subject to Federal regulation.

INQUEST FINDS NO EVIDENCE AGAINST MAN IN KILLING

Authorities to Hold J. H. Wilson as Witness Against Woman Accused of Homicide.

A Coroner's jury at East St. Louis yesterday failed to find sufficient evidence to connect John H. Wilson, unemployed bookkeeper, with the murder of Frank Finnell, 57-year-old railroad crossing watchman, who was found beaten to death in a rooming house in Fairmont City last Tuesday.

A murder warrant was issued at Belleville last week against Wilson and Mrs. Edna Williams, proprietor of the rooming house, 2509 North Forty-first street. Authorities plan to hold Wilson under bond as a witness against Mrs. Williams, who was charged with homicide in the Coroner's verdict. Wilson resides at 596 North Twenty-second street, East St. Louis.

Policemen testified they found a stained police club in Mrs. Williams' dresser and stained towels and a scarf in her room. Finnell, a roomer, had been attentive to Mrs. Williams, who is separated from her husband, police said.

Mrs. Williams did not testify on advice of counsel, but remarked, "I don't like to hear lies told against me."

ROOSEVELT TO APPROVE PHILIPPINE CONSTITUTION

Ceremony Saturday to Be Witnessed by Large Delegation of Islanders.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 20.—President Roosevelt, in the presence of a large delegation of Filipinos, will officially approve the Constitution of the Philippines' new commonwealth government on Saturday.

The commonwealth will be set up as soon as the Constitution is accepted by the Islanders and elections are held. An act of Congress passed last year provides for the proclamation of final independence 10 years hence.

The McDuffie-Tydings Independence law provides for a plebiscite in which the Islanders may accept or reject the Constitution. This is expected to be held in May, with the election of commonwealth officers in September.

MISS CYNTHIA P. DOZIER BURIAL SERVICE IN ST. LOUIS

Ashes of Prominent Educator, Who Died in East, Placed in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

The ashes of Miss Cynthia P. Dozier, prominent St. Louis educator more than 40 years ago, who died Feb. 23 at Middletown, N. Y., of infirmities of age, were returned to St. Louis yesterday and buried in Bellefontaine Cemetery. They were placed in the burial lot of Benjamin A. Dozier, a half-brother of her father, James Dozier, in accordance with her wish.

Miss Dozier, 86 years old, was a pioneer in the field of progressive child education, having studied under Miss Susan E. Blow, the founder of the first kindergarten in America, and was the first supervisor of kindergartens in St. Louis. She opened her famous private school for children in 1884, first in a house at 2917 Washington avenue, and later at larger quarters at Morgan street and Channing avenue. Among her early pupils were Dwight F. Davis, former Secretary of War, J. Lionberger Davis, Harold M. Bixby, Erastus Wells and Edward Mallinckrodt.

She left St. Louis about 25 years ago and continued her teaching in New York until her retirement 12 years ago. Funeral services were held March 1 at Germantown, Pa. Surviving are a cousin, Mrs. T. P. Conant of St. Louis, and a niece, Mrs. H. P. Dormer of Philadelphia.

CALIFORNIA MOVIE TAX KILLED

Provision in Sales Tax Bill Voted Down by Assembly.

By the Associated Press. SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 20.—A provision in the Lyon sales tax bill, which would have levied $350,000 annually on motion picture film rentals, was voted down by the State Assembly yesterday.

Several motion picture company officers have threatened to move their concerns out of California if heavy State taxes were levied against the industry.

PRIMARY RESULTS IN CITIES IN COUNTY

Light Vote in Webster Groves—Fels, Martini Nominated in Maplewood.

Primary elections were held yesterday in Webster Groves and Maplewood, which have the commission form of government. Two candidates for Mayor and six for council seats were named in each city in the elections April 2, a Mayor and three Councilmen will be chosen in each place.

For Mayor of Webster Groves John B. Chipman (incumbent) received 1747 votes and George W. Kriegesman, newspaper publisher, 982. They were unopposed.

Those nominated for the council were: T. Herbert Heath, 1343, Bertram Forester, 1207; Edwin F. Chapman, 1102; Herbert DeStaeleler, 1028; Joseph P. Waddock, 755, and Eugene H. Booth, 709. The first three are present members of the Council. Six other candidates received a total vote varying from 128 to 495.

Only a light vote was cast, a total of 2729. The registration was 7740.

For Mayor of Maplewood, John D. Fels (incumbent) with 1667 votes and Frank L. Martini with 1872 were nominated.

The vote of the four losing candidates for Mayor was: Joseph Carr, 891; George A. McGee, 166; O. C. Provost, 11; and Dr. Otto P. Grimm, 5.

Candidates named for Councilman in Maplewood were: Oscar E. Hegestrom, 2151; Police Chief Joseph E. Kavanaugh, 2041; Harry G. McClure, 1415; Fred Heidemann, 969; M. E. Waterhouse, 926; and J. La Johansen, 901.

Fifteen other candidates received a total vote varying from 66 to 766. The vote was heavy in comparison with previous primaries. A total of 4612 ballots was cast out of a registration of 6468.

There were no outstanding issues in either city, but in Maplewood wide interest was shown during an active campaign resulting from the large number of candidates in the field.

A proposal to legalize Sunday motion pictures in Webster Groves, where they have been barred by ordinance since 1906, will be submitted to the voters at the election on April 2. Similar proposals were defeated in 1923 by 445 votes and in 1929 677 votes. There is one motion picture theater in the city.

TRY FORUM'S Daily 8¢ Specials -

ENJOY A COMPLETE MEAL OF GOOD FOOD FOR 25¢ OR EVEN LESS

"THEY'RE GREAT"

Everybody agrees. Think of it! ... a generously served combination plate with meat for only 8¢. Served daily.

Yes, you can still get a complete meal of good, wholesome food for only 25¢, or even less, at the Forum.

No need to do without meat. Take the 8¢ Special. Then, take your choice of a 5¢ or 6¢ fresh vegetable. Bread and butter. And a crisp, fresh 5¢ salad or dessert ... a satisfying, complete meal for a quarter or less.

Where else can you get so much good food for so little? And, where else can you select from so many other reasonably priced, 8¢, 10¢, 12¢, and 15¢ meats, served every meal? (Note tremendous variety and low, everyday prices below.)

Last year, in the face of rapidly increasing wholesale food costs, the Forum made its greatest record in holding prices down. Because lots of customers make low prices possible ... possible because our business increased nearly 1,000,000 meals in 1934.

OUR INVITATION: Try the Forum. Then decide: Where can I get any better food? Where can I enjoy such complete variety to select from? Where else are the prices so low on the average complete meal of good, wholesome food?

HOW THE FORUM HOLDS MEAL COSTS DOWN: In 1934, the cost of our wholesale food supplies advanced 22% or $272,000 more than 1933; our payroll increased 21.7% or $132,000. Total increased costs, over $400,000 amounting to 9¢ per meal. But Forum volume was up nearly 1 million meals, so Forum prices have been consistently held down to an increase of only 1¢/10¢ per meal. (All Forum Cafeterias.)

HOW TO AVOID THE "RUSH HOUR": If convenient, we suggest that you come a few minutes before 12 noon or after 1, and before 5:30 or after 6:30 in the evening. You will find the food just as fresh, just as good, and much faster service.

GOV. DAVEY DOESN'T SEE ANYTHING WRONG ABOUT POLITICS AND RELIEF TIE-UP

Old Ohio Custom to Do Business With Party Contributors, He Says—In Difficulties Since Inauguration.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., March 20.—After two months in office, Martin L. Davey, Democratic Governor of Ohio, a tree surgeon who turned to politics, found himself today under the fire of the "New Deal" in Washington as well as that of his foes within the State.

Davey, commenting to the writer on the charges first advanced by Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins that his campaign committee "shook down" merchants doing business with the State Relief Commission to pay off a campaign deficit and inaugurate expenses, disclaimed knowledge of such a procedure but added that he "didn't see anything wrong with it—other things being equal."

"It's an old custom in Ohio," Gov. Davey said, "for the party in power to do business with contributors to its campaign fund, provided prices and quality are up to standard. While I don't know a thing about the present relief situation—I was in Florida at the time—I have been informed that the men mentioned as having been subjected to a 'shake-down' came in and voluntarily contributed. Of course, we would accept such contributions, who wouldn't?"

State Chairman's View.

Francis W. Poulson, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, asked concerning the charges which led President Roosevelt to direct Hopkins to assume "entire control" of spending Federal relief funds in Ohio, expressed the same sentiment advanced by Gov. Davey—that other things being equal preference should be given to "supporters of the party."

"The whole thing in a nut shell," said Poulson, a practical politician, "is that one or two relief employees who thought they were going to lose their jobs because of change in administration appear to have solicited contributions in order to ingratiate themselves with the Governor and hand their jobs. That wasn't necessary."

Gov. Davey, who has charged Relief Administrator Hopkins with libel and denounced him as a "character-assassin," told the writer he attacked Federal relief methods during his campaign and gave his plan for the administration of relief funds.

Friction Started at Once.

Relief money—represented in March by $3,000,000 in Federal funds and $2,000,000 in State funds—should be disbursed, the Governor contended, through trustees of the various townships and "outstanding citizens" of the principal cities.

No sooner had Gov. Davey taken office, on Jan. 14, last, he conceded, than friction developed between him and Hopkins, whose relief activities he had criticized during the campaign.

Gov. Davey named William A. Walls, superintendent of schools in his home town of Kent, O., as State Relief Director to succeed former Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, who had developed the State's relief system under Gov. George White, also a Democrat, who was succeeded by Davey.

"I considered Henderson unsuitable," Davey said, "and wanted to supplant him with someone personally loyal. You know, I had a struggle getting Hopkins to approve the appointment. He finally did so."

When the Federal Government took over relief in Ohio, Charles Clark Stillman, Ohio State University professor, was named director to succeed Walls.

"I wash my hands of the whole matter," Gov. Davey exclaimed to the writer, as new bulletins reached him regarding the relief investigation.

Up to Hopkins Now.

"I can only say," the Governor continued, "that I had previously stated I was not willing to be charged with responsibility for relief if I had no way to correct certain evils which have crept in. Now, Hopkins has finally done what I wanted him to do—but in a very unsportsmanlike manner. It's up to him now."

The Governor's method of correcting "evils," he explained, would be to adopt the system he previously outlined of permitting township trustees and citizens' committees to disburse relief funds. He has publicly attacked "college graduate" case investigators and said today there were but two problems connected with relief.

"One is whether a person needs help," Gov. Davey said, "the other is whether he is entitled to it."

The Governor said he had numerous letters to support his contention of "wasteful, inhumane, and inefficient" Federal relief measures but "hadn't had time to assemble them in proper form."

Not only is the Governor beset by charges from Washington, but Democratic factions within the State are opposed to him. However, the Legislature Monday night rallied to his support in blocking a Republican proposal to empower Attorney-General Bricker to prosecute the charges against the campaign committee. Democrats also voted down a proposal to give Republicans equal representation on a committee to investigate the relief situation.

Attack by Party Officer.

A formal attack on the Governor was issued yesterday by Merle H. Patch, secretary of the Democratic Executive Committee of the Governor's home county of Portage, reviving various campaign issues and taking the Governor to task for "burdening the taxpayers with paying for hotel suites for himself and his Kent employees."

Gov. Davey, who was elected after a close primary struggle without support of the "old line Democratic cliques," told the writer that he had "appealed to the people over the radio" and the Governor detailed for the writer some of the things which have attracted public attention.

Some Other Difficulties.

While preferring to characterize his administration as one which "has been attacked" rather than "troubled," the Governor detailed for the writer some of the things which have attracted public attention.

VICTIM OF AN AIRPLANE WRECK FOUR YEARS AGO TRIES COMEBACK

By Damon Kerby.

They said Betty Robinson would never race again after she was injured in an airplane crash several years ago, but they didn't take into consideration the iron nerve and determination of the Chicago girl who won Olympic title honors in 1928.

Miss Robinson is returning to the races, thereby proving that Charley Gelbert and Rabbit Maranville do not have a corner on courage in the present-day athletic world. Miss Robinson will compete in her first national event since her accident when she races in the National A. A. U. women's indoor track and field meet here Friday night at the Sports Arena.

The accident took place in Chicago in June of 1931. Miss Robinson, who was 19 years old at the time and a student at Northwestern University, suffered fractures of her left arm, left leg, right hip and a skull injury. No wonder they said she would never race again!

In this important comeback effort the former Olympic star will race in the 200-meter event and in the relay. She has the anchor position on the Chicago relay team.

Miss Walsh to Get Expenses. It is certainly because of finances, as to whether the internationally known St. Louis Walsh would compete was apparently eliminated with an announcement at noon today that the Olympic Athletic Club, sponsors of the meet, had guaranteed her traveling expenses from Cleveland. She will be the guest of the Polish Falcons while in St. Louis.

The Polish-American star is entered in the 200-meter and 500-meter dashes and the basketball throw. In the 200 meters, one of the best points in the program, she will race against such other outstanding performers as Rony Atkins of Toronto, Marie Cottrell and Clara Egan of New York; Gertrude West of St. Louis and Miss Robinson of Chicago.

In addition to Miss Robinson, Chicago will send another widely known star here in Evelyn Hall, holder of the world record in the 100-meter dash.

Other members of the Chicago team include Nan Gindele, Olympic 100-meter star and holder of the record in the basketball throw, and Annie Rogers, Olympic high jumper and relay star.

The New York team is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis tonight by the Algonquin, one of the New York City's last year's winners in the indoor honors in the 100-meter dash with a mark of 1:12.1, just two inches short of the world record. She will race Catherine Maguire of Pacific, who has this season's outstanding 100-meter high jump.

From Skates to Spiked Shoes. Gelbert—then what? Displace Durocher, the miracle man of the world series? Hardly.

Trade Gelbert? Unproved, what look would gamble? He might look good in workouts; but there would be no certainty that he would be strong enough to play a season—hardly a possibility, with a leg so weakened.

Undoubtedly the Cardinals, on request, would give him the privilege of making the best bargain he could for himself unless they figured he was strong enough to be retained as a replacement in case Durocher was hurt.

The last-mentioned contingency would be Gelbert's best hope, for it would give him a chance slowly to build himself back without too great a strain.

Gelbert's case is just another evidence that a baseball player's professional life is a short and none too merry one.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Hoping Against Hope.

WEST PALM BEACH, March 20. HARLEY GELBERT, word from Bradenton, Fla., says, is lively as a cricket and hoping to get back into harness once again, as a major league factor. The Cardinals are giving him every opportunity.

It is a courageous fight Gelbert is making after three years. The club is encouraging him; doctors decline to discourage him. Charley himself refuses to give up. The facts show that he has made steady improvement. But, if facts are to be faced, they also show that it is three years since Gelbert was injured; that for more than two years the wound had not closed; that the bone had been weakened; and that it is extremely doubtful if the tissue lost when blown away by a shotgun blast, has adequately been replaced by grafting.

It would be the greatest comeback in history if Gelbert returned to major league efficiency. Still, miracles happen daily—why not one for Charley?

What About Durocher?

BUT if it happens, and Gelbert returns to something like normal—then what? Displace Durocher, the miracle man of the world series? Hardly.

Trade Gelbert? Unproved, what look would gamble? He might look good in workouts; but there would be no certainty that he would be strong enough to play a season—hardly a possibility, with a leg so weakened.

COUNTRY CLUB AFTER INDOOR TENNIS HONORS

By Davison Ohear.

Players from the St. Louis Country Club will make a strong bid for honors in the ninth annual St. Louis district indoor tennis championship which opens Saturday afternoon at the Washington University Field House. The club has entered four players in the men's singles and two strong doubles combinations.

Henry Kaltenbach, Bert Lambert, Howard Stephens Jr. and William Leigh will participate in the singles. Lambert and Kaltenbach are entered in the doubles, while Stephens will pair with Joseph L. Werner.

Miss Alita Davis, another St. Louis Country Club player, will be unable to participate this year, owing to absence from the city. She is the present holder of the women's singles title, won in 1927 and successfully defended last year when the event was resumed.

Charles McMillin, Triple A star, has entered the men's singles again this year. While his game is not especially adapted to indoor play, McMillin has shown steady improvement and may spring a surprise this year.

The Princeton College will be represented by Leonard Watson and Curtis Foster. Watson played last year and he is expected to show an improved game this year.

Reservoir Park will be well represented in the district indoor event. Marjorie Dieberger has entered the women's singles, while those who will participate in the men's events are Frank Keaney, Herbert Markwort and Jack Weber.

Entries for the singles events will close tomorrow afternoon. Players may enter at the district tennis office, 514 Franklin American Building, or at sporting goods stores. The entry fee for singles is $1.50 and includes player's admission ticket good for all matches.

Although eight district indoor tournaments have been played only three players have won the men's singles title. Only four combinations have captured the men's doubles event since the first tournament in 1927. Only seven mixed doubles tournaments have been won by four combinations.

TWO W. M. A. SWIMMERS IN NATIONAL TOURNEY Ralph Jackson and Howard Humphreys will represent Western Military Academy in the national interscholastic swimming tournament to be held in Philadelphia next Friday and Saturday. The swimmers will depart this afternoon.

Humphreys is a diver and has won several Central Illinois A. A. U. championships. Jackson is a sprinter and will compete in the 220 and 440 yard free style events.

FINAL GAMES IN CHURCH TOURNEY ARE SCHEDULED

Shaare Zedek and Our Redeemer (Lutheran) Church basketball teams reached the final round of the Greater St. Louis church basketball tournament last night, and will play tomorrow for the men's championship at McBride High School gymnasium. In the intermediate division, the defending champions, Emmaus Evangelical Lutheran, oppose the Friedlens Evangelical in the first game tomorrow night at 8 o'clock for that division championship.

Three of the four semifinal games last night were won by one point. Only Shaare Zedek had an easy victory, turning back Pilgrim Lutheran 36-20.

In the other men's contest, Our Redeemer, behind most of the way, doggedly fought its way to a 21-21 tie in the last quarter after being 5 points behind. Then, with the score tied, Fred Renne sank a free throw for the decisive point.

Emmaus and Holy Cross played a close game throughout, with score being 2-2 after one period, and 9-6 in favor of Holy Cross at the half. Emmaus tied the score after three periods at 11-11, and in the last quarter went into a 18-14 lead. Ray Hoehle and Norman Schneider of Holy Cross scored in the last minute to bring the score to 19-18, but could not score three times in the minute.

Friedlens staged the best comeback of any last night, trailing 22-13 at the half to Grace Presbyterian. Grace continued to lead, 29-26, with only 30 seconds to go, but quick and accurate shooting by Tudor made two baskets, the second being in the air as the gun sounded the end of the game.

Joliet Quintet Seeks Its Fourth Catholic Honors

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 20.—Catholic High of Joliet, Ill., tonight opens a campaign to annex its fourth national Catholic prep basketball championship in eight years when it opens the annual tournament against the St. Mary quint from Menasha, Wis.

Although the Joliet five was a favorite to emerge victor in the inaugural game of the five-day and night championship drive, odds were heavy that it would lose its title against the field that included 31 strong teams from 12 scattered states.

Some Chicago teams, notably St. Mel, City Catholic League titleholder, was expected to win the crown in the finals Sunday night at the Loyola University gymnasium. In 11 years of tournament play, the championship has left the Chicago metropolitan area only three times.

De LaSalle of Minneapolis, Cathedral of Indianapolis and St. Xavier of Louisville, Ky., won it on those occasions.

Two other first round games will be played tonight—Central Catholic High, Fort Wayne, Ind., vs. Columbia Academy, Dubuque, Ia., and St. Francis Mission, St. Francis, S. D., vs. St. Mary Academy, Dunkirk, N. Y. First round games will be continued until Friday morning. Second round games will be concluded Friday night with the quarter-finals Saturday afternoon. ## HORSES AILING, SAN MATEO RACE MAY BE DELAYED

By the Associated Press.
SAN MATEO, Cal., March 20.—With Top Row on the sick list, Azucar in poor condition and Mate scratched from the entries by a last minute decision by his owner, Track Manager Bill Kyne yesterday announced he may be forced to postpone the bay Meadows $25,000 Handicap set for Saturday.

Kyne said unless six solid contenders are ready to face the barrier, he will put off the classic until April 6.

Will Hold Cup Race. DETROIT, March 20.—The board of directors of the Detroit Racing Association announced yesterday a Detroit Challenge Cup race for three-year-olds and upward—an event designed to bring about a meeting of the Big Three of the turf, Azucar, Cavalcade and Discovery.

Such a contest has been discussed recently by Fred Alger, owner of Azucar; Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, owner of Discovery, who is a house guest of the Algiers here, and Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, owner of Cavalcade.

In announcing the cup race, which will be held here June 29, the racing association disclosed the event would have an added money value of $25,000, in addition to the trophy. It will be over a one and three-sixteenths course.

Both Alger and Vanderbilt said immediately that their horses would be nominated.

BLEWETT SWIMMERS WIN FROM CENTRAL, 42-33 Ben Blewett High School's swimming team won a dual meet from Central High, 42-33, yesterday at the Y. M. H. A. pool.

MISSOURI HOUSE GROUP AMENDS LIQUOR BILLS

Approves 3.2 Beer Measure and Proposal to Revise Control Law After 10 Changes.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, March 20.—The House Committee on Criminal Justice last night in advancing the 3.2 beer law, already passed by the Senate, when it reported both bills out favorably last night following the committee's meeting on the two measures.

The committee recommended 10 amendments to the bill revising the liquor control law, the principal one giving the State liquor control supervisor and his inspectors the power of peace officers and authorizing the State to make arrests for violations of the liquor control law. Another amendment would increase the salary of E. J. Becker, the State liquor control supervisor, from $100 to $1500 a year.

Two amendments to the Senate bill revising the 3.2 beer law were proposed by the committee, one of which would give the legislative bodies of cities, towns or villages the power to prescribe by ordinance whether 3.2 per cent "non-intoxicating" beer may be sold on Sunday, either by wholesale or retail. It is present form the Senate bill would continue the present authorization of the sale of 3.2 per cent beer on Sunday.

The committee also recommended an amendment reducing the annual State license of grocers and meat markets selling 3.2 beer in original packages from $25 to $15.

Amendments to the liquor control revision bill recommended by the committee, in addition to those giving the supervisor and his inspectors powers of peace officers and increasing Becker's salary, included: Requiring distillers or wholesalers outside Missouri to sell liquor in the State only through Missouri wholesalers and reducing the value of the merchandise stock that holders of original packages must have on hand when they sell liquors, from $1500 to $500.

DAVEY CAN'T SEE ANYTHING WRONG ABOUT COLLECTION

During the two months he has been in office.

Referring to charges that he brought a "Kent gang" to the State Capitol and that his organization, headed by the State Committee, maintained elaborate suites at the Desler-Wallick Hotel—across the street from the Capitol—the Governor declared that he was given a "suite" without cost.

"I find it convenient to meet people there after office hours," Governor Davey explained, "for I never transact any business at the executive mansion. As far as the Kent crowd goes, why shouldn't I surround myself with some persons who have proved their efficiency and demonstrated their personal loyalty?"

Served in Congress.

Gov. Davey, a salesman who developed his father's tree surgery business on a nationwide scope and used the same qualities of salesmanship with Ohio voters, first ran for Governor in 1928, after serving several terms in Congress, but was defeated in the Hoover landslide by Y. C. Cooper. But he ran ahead of his ticket and his business "tree" programs aided in cultivating a following which later enabled him to succeed Gov. White, a Democrat, who had served two terms.

In the primary he incurred the wrath of some of the Democratic organization. He was opposed by Charles Sawyer, Lieutenant-Governor, and William G. Peck of Dayton, a former Lieutenant-Governor. The "old line" organization split between Sawyer and Peck, and James M. Cox, Dayton publisher, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920, supported Peck while Newton D. Baker of Cincinnati, Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet, aided Sawyer.

Davey, dapper, well-dressed, a man of urban manner, achieved victory through his personal following. The only "old line" organization led by Burr Gonswey, mayor of W. J. Leonard, Cincinnati political leader, who was against Davey.

So Davey, who told the writer he was "no lawyer," came into office surrounded by home town friends, a few outside advisers, but without the active support of the veterans of Ohio politics.

One of his objectives, he told the writer, is to "compel honest enforcement of the liquor laws—two-thirds of the liquor sold in Ohio is bootleg."

In pursuance of this goal he appointed Oakley Spaght, a member of the preceding Legislature, as liquor director. Later to his embarrassment, he found the State Constitution prohibits a member of the Legislature from occupying an office created during his term.

So Gov. Davey withdrew Spaght's nomination and announced he would appoint Clarence H. Burke who resigned from the Legislature before the liquor act was passed. But Burke, it was pointed out, was not eligible either because of the term provision. His nomination still is before the Senate and Gov. Davey observed today "I only hope it will go through—I'm no lawyer—I'm just trying to get a good man."

Bank Selection Withdraws.

Another proposal by Gov. Davey which aroused public protest was his announced intention of naming Allen Ayres of Akron as State Superintendent of Banks. Ayres withdrew when it was pointed out that he owed money to insolvent banks which would have been under his direction. But the Governor did not withdraw his name and said today that he "would have been a good man—who doesn't owe money?"

Differences between Gov. Davey and other factions were evidenced before he assumed office when Gov. White, as one of his last official acts, reappointed T. J. Brindle as State Public Works Director. Davey had announced he would appoint George E. Epley of Cleveland to the post only to discover that the incumbent, by grace of the retiring Governor, had another year to serve and could not be replaced. Public criticism arose a few days after Gov. Davey took office because of methods he employed in ousting Warden Preston E. Thomas of Ohio State Penitentiary for 25 years. The Governor used the National Guard to seize the office records and control the institution. Charges incompetency and "gross favoritism" against the Warden will be heard next month by the State Civil Service Commission.

"My methods are sometimes spectacular," Gov. Davey remarked to the writer, "but they were necessary to get results."

"Yes, I've had an exciting two months," the Governor concluded, "but I'm going to keep right on trying to do my job the best way I can. My friends are standing by me in fine style."

Job Depended on Fund.

Affidavits which Hopkins asserted bore out his charges of a political "shakedown" of business firms selling good to the State Relief Administration, were received by Attorney-General John W. Bricker, and by the prosecuting attorneys of two counties. The counties were Lucas (Toledo) and Franklin (Columbus).

The affidavits contained assertions by Kenneth P. Aller and Thomas E. Jones of Columbus and William R. McNamara of Camp Chase, near here. McNamara is superintendent of the Surplus Commodities Division of the State Relief Commission; Jones is his assistant, and Aller is a trucking company operator.

The affidavits contained an assertion by McNamara that Jack

McCombe of the Democratic State Committee directed him to help solicit a fund of $10,000 to help pay a campaign deficit and Davey inaugurated expenses and that McNamara's assistance in raising the fund depended on McNamara's chance to retain his Relief Commission position.

McNamara's affidavit also asserted Poulson expressed appreciation for the collection of money.

Prosecutor Reams, of Lucas County, who recently directed an investigation of the Ohio penitentiary at the instigation of Gov. Davey, made public three of the Hopkins' affidavits. This was done notwithstanding a statement by United States District Attorney Francis Canny that "we have thought best, in the interests of whatever there is in this case, not to make public the contents of the affidavits at this time."

Tells of Payment in Room.

The McNamara affidavit said McCombe told McNamara it was a matter of his job and those of Jones and John A. Lee, McCombe's assistants, to raise $10,000. McNamara said he later handed McCombe $1500 in a room in the Desler-Wallick Hotel in Columbus. He said Judge George Nye of Pike County Common Pleas Court was the only other person present.

"Mr. McCombe thanked me and again stated my position would be secure under the Davey administration," McNamara said in the affidavit.

Judge Nye denied today that he ever witnessed a financial transaction between McNamara and McCombe.

Report by Aller.

The affidavit made by Aller, of the Columbus firm of Aller & Sharp, Inc., contract carriers, said that about Dec. 15 Jones told Aller "he had been instructed by the men in charge of the Davey campaign to raise $10,000." And that if the fund was not raised Jones' job would be insecure. Aller said in the affidavit the company had done $150,000 to $160,000 business with the Ohio Relief Commission up to Jan. 1.

Aller said he gave $250 in currency and $500 which he received from a Mr. Mindel. The company reimbursed him, he said, and entered the account in the books under gifts and donations.

Aller said that on March 12 he talked to an FERA representative in Columbus about Jones, and as a result, tried to locate him. He said he learned Jones had gone to Pittsburgh at the suggestion of McNamara so that Federal investigators could not reach him. Aller said he talked to Jones over the telephone, then went with the Federal man to Pittsburgh and from there to Washington, where Jones told the story of the transaction.

In the affidavit given by Jones he said he collected $8500 and listed the contributors, among them the

PARIS, March 20.—The French Government, protesting against German rearmament in a note to Berlin, also succeeded today in arranging for arrangements for a tripartite conference for Saturday of France, Great Britain and Italy on the new European situation.The conference, advocated by the French since Monday, when Great Britain delivered what the French regard as its "mild" note to Berlin, was finally arranged shortly before noon.It was said that Capt. Anthony Eden, British Lord Privy Seal, probably will represent the London Government in the belief that it might be undignified for Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, to appear to be taking orders from other Powers before going to Berlin.The French note of protest, which will be delivered in Berlin this afternoon through the French embassy, specifically mentioned return of conscription and the resumption of Germany's "freedom of action in armaments" and Germany's new air force.Intends to Seek League's Aid.
It was also understood that the French Cabinet has decided to raise the question of Germany's violation of the Versailles Treaty before the League of Nations Council.The Government was understood to expect nothing satisfactory from Sir John Simon's visit to Berlin, but the three-Power meeting was planned in the hope that the British attitude can be stiffened before he goes there.Soviet Russia's friendship, which became all the more attractive in the face of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's attitude, is so he cultivated by a visit of Pierre Laval, French Foreign Minister, to Moscow. The Cabinet formally approved this visit today and decided that he should go as soon as possible.The note was telephoned to Ambassador Francois-Poncet in Berlin this afternoon for delivery in the Wilhelmstrasse later, but its publication, it was said, might be deferred until tomorrow morning.Note a 'Firm Protestation.' While officials guarded the communications contents closely, it is known to be a "firm protestation," raising Germany's attention sharply to the clauses of the Versailles Treaty which have been violated.France is taking the position that Germany still is technically a member of the League of Nations, since its resignation, made less than two years ago, still is not effective, and that therefore Germany remains under the jurisdiction of the League. Germany left the League
Oct. 26, 1933, but under the League's regulations, the necessary two-year notice has not yet expired.While the Cabinet still was in session considering the note, the French, Fascist and Nationalist leagues said that their "troops," for which they claim membership of 1,000,000 men, would be doubled within six months because of German conscription. The leagues announced their volume of troops today on the day following the announcement of conscription by Reichsfuehrer Hitler.Attitude of Cabinet.
It was understood the French Cabinet in deciding on the protest, regarded that coolness had developed with Great Britain and that therefore France must act vigorously to maintain its prestige in the face of Hitler's attitude.The Government previously had suggested that a joint action of France, Great Britain and Italy might be arranged, but now it was regarded as believing that England would refuse to consult the other Powers on the ground that it would appear undignified for the British Government to appear to take orders from other nations on a situation which England thinks is quite as grave as for France.The Cabinet did not decide on the method by which Germany would be raised before the League Council, but Foreign Office experts suggested that it might be done under Articles 10 and 213 of the treaty.Article 11 provides for action in case of "war or threat of war."Article 16 concerns the limitation of German armaments. Article 213 requires Germany to "give every facility for any investigation" which the Council orders.The note specifically protests against the announcement by Gen.
Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German Aviation Minister, that Germany's air force will become official April 1 and also against the return of conscription in Germany and the resumption of "freedom of action" in armaments.Flandin Tells Senate He Has Con-in the country's fighting strength."

they were in 1914."Replying to an interpellation, designed to give a vote of confidence, Flandin said that German rearmament "imposes on us the duty to be vigilant as was stated in the British White Book. The facts made known about German rearmament have defied for a long time. We were in-

Missiles Would Have Done.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 20.—Cannoncracker "bombs" and smokepots gave the German capital a realistic imitation of an enemy air raid today, as Germany's newly created air fleet went through a spectacular maneuver.Shortly after 9 a. m. bombing planes swooped low over the Kreuz-berg district, south of the city's center, where residents were warned to get out of the danger zone or failing that, to stay indoors out of harm's way.The imitation bombs were dropped into big piles of earth in the streets. Smokepots were touched off on the roofs of buildings as the planes passed overhead, indicating that those houses had been set on fire.Isolated Area.
The district about the Tempelhof Airport, about one-seventh of a mile wide, was isolated from the rest of the city during the bombardment.All inhabitants who did not leave before the attack started were compelled to remain indoors until 3 p.
m. Nine schools in the area were closed.At one place in the area there was a hole in the middle of the street measuring nine feet in depth and 18 feet across. Around it lay stones and parts of bomb shells.case of "war or threat of war."
Article 16 concerns the limitation of German armaments. Article 213
requires Germany to "give every facility for any investigation" which

"Shall we resign ourselves to what would be bankruptcy of the disarmament conference?" Flandin intends to continue her disarmament efforts through pacts of mutual guarantees for security.Flandin defended the lengthening of French military service by decree as a quicker method "avoiding long debate." He justified keeping the army at its old strength because of unsettled conditions, and declared "if our concern was legiti-mate March 15, how much more so it ought to be since the proclamation of obligatory service in Germany."If the conception of Hitler's proclamation were accepted by the world, Flandin continued, "it would mark the destruction of peace founded on the League of Nations."
Flandin rejected the idea that Reichsfuehrer Hitler was spurred to action by the British White Book, saying "Germany's 12 army corps and 36 divisions already existed.
Moreover, eight days earlier the official decision to create military aviation was made public."Britain to Send Capt. Eden to Paris Conference Saturday.
(Copyright 1935, by the Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 20.—The British Cabinet today agreed to send Capt. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, to Paris Saturday for a conference with representatives of France and Italy on the subject of Germany's rearmament.It was officially announced that Capt. Eden would represent Great Britain, that Fulvio Suvich, Italian Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, would represent Italy and that Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister of France, would be their host.The British were described as having yielded to pressure brought to bear by France and Italy for the conference. The Cabinet made its decision at its regular Wednesday session.Reason for Sending Eden.
It was said that Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, who goes to Berlin with Capt. Eden Sunday for conversations next Monday and Tuesday with Reichsfuehrer Hitler, would not attend the Paris conference because he wants to do nothing to damage what the British believe to be satisfactory progress toward their goal of getting Germany back into the League of Nations.The Cabinet was understood to have opposed the idea of sending a large group of Ministers.
Officially it was stated that the suggestion was being held at the conference of the British Government and that the decision to call the conference was made after aBroken water pipes flooded the street and skilled workers were busy re-connecting the pipes with water hose. From another and even larger hole one block away flames 30 feet high roared out of broken gas pipes and street lamps.
Emergency workers clad in asbestos suits and equipped with gas masks went after the flames and extinguished them in exactly six minutes by means of a new invention."Wounded" Cared for.
Rescuers dug rubbish from the front doors of a school to make way for ambulance drivers and helpers who carried out citizens besmirched with red paint and bandages.The deserted Kreuzberg district, with the piles of earth and debris strewn about its thoroughfares, had much the appearance of a city devastated by war.Bombers and pursuit planes estimated to number between 100 and 150 soared above the city last night, while citizens crowded the streets to gaze aloft in admiration.All lights were extinguished at 10
p. m., for the maneuvers, during which anti-aircraft detachments manned their batteries in a mock defense of the capital. Civilians crowded the thoroughfares, despite official orders that they remain indoor.Referring again and again to the part that New York bankers had played in the affairs of the Missouri Pacific and the Frisco lines,
Beard said that the same banking interests were in control of railroads now in process of reorganization.Without a Senate investigation,
Beard said, it was probable that the Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland would force their plan of reorganization upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.Says Bankers Have Real Control.
"The real control," said Beard,
"is in the hands of the bankers for
the Van Sweringens—J. P. Morgan
& Co., and a New York banking syndicate formed by J. P. Morgan & Co. This Morgan syndicate is a creditor of the Van Sweringens in the amount of $48,000,000. The Van Sweringens are in no position to pay this huge debt. The collateral which the Van Sweringens gave the bankers is hardly worth more today
than the paper on which it is lithographed. Only by financial wizardry could the Van Sweringens pay off
the bankers."The Van Sweringens occupy a chair at the railway poker table,
playing with one of the biggest chips
in the game, but behind them stands
the Morgan banking syndicate with the power at any time to deprive
the Van Sweringens of their seat
at the table and to send them to the bread line. This example, an example dealing with the greatest prize in the American railway system, shows how tight is the grasp
of the New York bankers on our railways today and how much tighter the very depression has made their grasp."Analyzing the affairs of the Frisco, Beard spoke of recent testimony before the Federal Court in St. Louis and again condemned the part that bankers had played in directing the railroad system. He reviewed in considerable detail an early loan which the Frisco obtained from the RFC, charging that it had been made with inadequate collateral on promise of bankers of the line to secure the Government's interest in reorganization.The bankers, including the Chase
National Bank, the Guaranty Trust
Co., Dillon, Read & Co., J. & W.
Seligman & Co., and Speyer & Co.,
repudiated this promise, Beard
charged.They wrote a letter to the RFC saying that they had fully complied with their obligation to the Government, although they had failed to put up the reorganization securities called for by their written promise," Beard said. "The so-called protective committees organized by these reorganizers wroteconsultation with the French and Italian Governments relative to their desire for such a meeting.
Purpose of Conference.
The purpose of the conference is
to draft a list of questions representing the joint views of Great Britain, France and Italy on Germany's future policies toward the League of Nations, Austria, disarmament, an Eastern European securities pact, and a mutual aviation
pact."Visits Purely Exploratory."
Simon, in the House of Commons, described the forthcoming visits to Berlin and Moscow as "purely exploratory."The Foreign Secretary gave this definition in reply to an invitation
by Dudley Joss, Conservative, that he give assurance that Parliament would not be committed without its prior knowledge to any possible
modification of the Treaty of Versailles.Capt. Eden said the Russian conversations would be mainly concerned with questions arising from the political situation in Europe.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Only a Senate investigation can save the railroads from "banker control" which would mean new losses for hundreds of thousands of investors, Charles A. Beard, head of an independent Missouri Pacific Bondholders' Committee, told the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today. Beard is a historian, author of political works and former professor of politics at Columbia University.Beard was the first of several witnesses who will urge that the resolution of Senator Wheeler, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, to investigate the railroads be reported favorably to the Senate. For some time there have been persistent rumors that the "railway lobby" has succeeded in blocking the investigation, according to Max Lowenthal, New York lawyer, who has also interested himself in the proposed investigation.Referring again and again to the part that New York bankers had played in the affairs of the Missouri Pacific and the Frisco lines,
Beard said that the same banking
interests were in control of railroads now in process of reorganization.Without a Senate investigation,
Beard said, it was probable that the
Van Sweringen Brothers of Cleveland would force their plan of reorganization upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.Says Bankers Have Real Control.
"The real control," said Beard,
"is in the hands of the bankers for
the Van Sweringens—J. P. Morgan
& Co., and a New York banking
syndicate formed by J. P. Morgan
& Co. This Morgan syndicate is a creditor of the Van Sweringens in
the amount of $48,000,000. The Van Sweringens are in no position to pay this huge debt. The collateral
which the Van Sweringens gave the
bankers is hardly worth more today
than the paper on which it is lithographed. Only by financial wizardry
could the Van Sweringens pay off
the bankers."The Van Sweringens occupy a
chair at the railway poker table,
playing with one of the biggest chips
in the game, but behind them stands
the Morgan banking syndicate with
the power at any time to deprive
the Van Sweringens of their seat
at the table and to send them to the bread line. This example, an example dealing with the greatest prize in the American railway system, shows how tight is the grasp
of the New York bankers on our
railways today and how much tighter the very depression has made
their grasp."Analyzing the affairs of the Frisco, Beard spoke of recent testimony before the Federal Court in St. Louis and again condemned the part that bankers had played in directing the railroad system. He reviewed in considerable detail an early loan which the Frisco obtained from the RFC, charging that
it had been made with inadequate
collateral on promise of bankers of
the line to secure the Government's
National Bank, the Guaranty Trust
Co., Dillon, Read & Co., J. & W.
Seligman & Co., and Speyer & Co.,
repudiated this promise, Beard
charged.They wrote a letter to the RFC
saying that they had fully complied with their obligation to the Government, although they had failed to put up the reorganization
securities called for by their written promise," Beard said. "The so-called protective committees organized by these reorganizers wroteconsultation with the French and Italian Governments relative to
their desire for such a meeting.
Purpose of Conference.
The purpose of the conference is
to draft a list of questions repre-
Britain, France and Italy on Germany's future policies toward the League of Nations, Austria, disarmament, an Eastern European secu-
pact."Visits Purely Exploratory."
Simon, in the House of Commons,
described the forthcoming visits to Berlin and Moscow as "purely exploratory."The Foreign Secretary gave this definition in reply to an invitation
by Dudley Joss, Conservative, that he give assurance that Parliament
would not be committed without its
prior knowledge to any possible
modification of the Treaty of Versailles.Capt. Eden said the Russian conversations would be mainly concerned with questions arising from
the political situation in Europe.

ON THE SALES TAXChanges Its Mind on Allo-

Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 20.—
The House again changed its mind about allocation of school funds to be raised by the proposed 2 per cent sales tax and voted, 78 to 68, this afternoon for a reconsideration of the vote by which an amendment was adopted late yesterday to give rural schools the larger share of money from the school fund derived from the tax.It was another test of strength between city and rural members.
City members, believing that the amendment adopted yesterday would provide more funds for rural than for urban school districts, voted solidly for reconsideration and were joined by enough outstate Democrats to obtain passage of the motion.The House then voted a second time on Representative John D.
Taylor's amendment (adopted yesterday), after the reconsideration, and defeated it by a vote of 76 to 65.More for Rural Area.
This was followed by adoption of an amendment by Representative Caldwell of Ralls County, increasing the proportion of the sales tax funds which would go to the rural school districts. The amendment originally proposed by Taylor to put all the money derived from the tax in the general revenue fund, to be appropriated for relief and other specific purposes by the Legislature.Supporters of the measure are

ATTACKS VALUE PUT ON HOLDINGSCharges Government in Tax Hearing Is Opposing Steel Appraisal Accepted for Years.By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 20.—
The Government disclosed today that it would rely entirely on Andrew W. Mellon's own witnesses in its effort to prove that he should pay $3,000,000 extra tax and penalty on his 1931 income.The hearing before the Tax Board of Appeals is in its fifth week and Robert H. Jackson, chief counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau, said the Government would be ready to rest after completing cross-examination of the last Mellon witness. "We intend at this time to base our case entirely on evidence of these witnesses," he said.Mellon contends that instead of underpaying in 1931, he overpaid by $139,000.Ralph Pittinger, a public accountant who prepared tax reports of the Mellon-controlled McClintic-Marshall Co. from 1919 to 1931, the year the firm was taken over by Bethlehem Steel, was recalled to testify today. F. R. Shearer of the Government counsel, said he would question him "to considerable length."Letter Put in Record.
During Pittinger's testimony yesterday Mellon counsel won permission to insert part of a letter which they said showed the Government is questioning for the first time a McClintic-Marshall valuation which the Tax Commissioner has accepted for years.Mellon contends his 30 per cent of the McClintic-Marshall stock in 1913 was worth at least $4,600,000 but the Government argues the value was but $1,431,000. The difference would be reflected in profit accruing to Mellon at the time Mc-Clintic-Marshall was absorbed.Pittinger was asked by Maynard Teall, Mellon attorney, to identify one sentence of a letter sent prior to the absorption.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption; always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

What Is the Government?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE bill introduced into the State Legislature to outlaw the Communist party is not only for that purpose but is to deprive all working men and women of their constitutional rights. It will outlaw the Socialist party as well. The people would no longer have the right of free speech, of a free press, or of free assembly, nor freedom to state their grievances to officials whom they elected.
What do the sponsors of this bill mean by "overthrowing the Government"? What is the Government? The Constitution tells me that all the people form the Government, but there are those who would have the people believe that persons in office are the Government. The Constitution tells me that those in office are elected by the people, for the people and to serve the people. And the Constitution says that when the Government becomes grievous to the people, they have the right to amend it, and to establish a government that is more secure and safe for the people.
M. LEWIS.

The Public Administrator Exposure.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR exposure of the questionable methods used by the Public Administrator is a distinct public service that might be emulated by other newspapers in our great city. But you have, as usual, led the way and you deserve the plaudits and co-operation of all self-respecting citizens in your bold attempt to bring to light acts perpetrated in "dark alleys" by public officials.
VOTER.

That $50,000 Appropriation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A NEWS dispatch of several days ago announced that a $50,000 appropriation to the American Legion had been passed by the House of the Missouri General Assembly. That legislation will soon come before the Senate, with the prospect, according to Legionnaires, of immediate approval.

Perhaps the public is not generally aware that Section 46, Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Missouri states: "The General Assembly shall have no power to make any grant of public money or thing of value to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporation whatsoever; Provided, that this shall not be construed as to prevent the grant of aid in a case of public calamity."
This section has been used to prevent pensioning of police officers by the State, and has prohibited expenditures of public funds for projects far nearer a public purpose than Legion conventions. Perhaps the House has anticipated the September calamity!

DALE R. JOHNSON.

The Partition of Isiah.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
G. E. JOHNSON states that he has been unable to find the episode of the sawing asunder of Isiah by order of King Manasseh in his Bible and that maybe Father Coughlin is writing a new one.
The story of the death of Isiah was rabbinical tradition, accepted as true by the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews 11, 37. Post-apostolic writers quote from this epistle the same story from canonical writings, and its canonicity was definitely settled in the year 418 A. D.

LEONARD A. FECHTER.

A Small Merchant on Sales Tax.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR editorial of Sunday in regard to sales tax explains very well the reasons against such a tax. I have a small store and have cut overhead to the limit to keep going. A 2 per cent tax would compel me to get rid of help that I really need. To pass the tax along to the buyer is pretty hard to get away with.
Of course, no one wants to pay taxes, but why tax small incomes? Have you ever heard of a tax on the professions? Neither have I. Why penalize a man for being in business and giving employment to many? A little honest nerve in our lawmakers at Jefferson City would put the tax where it can be paid without hardship.
MAIN STREET.

Investor Victim.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR cartoon of March 14, "No One Weeping Over These Investors," hit the mark.
As a bondholder of some defaulted first mortgage notes, it seems to me nobody cares. The mother who killed her children rather than see them in want after she is said to have lost her all in the holding company—she is forgotten. She is now in a women's prison, while the men who were the cause of it go free.
JUSTICE.

After All These Years.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
ALL these years the left-wingers have been admitting that the profit system is good for those who own nearly all the means of production—good, they estimate, for about 2 per cent of the people.
Now Robert L. Lund presents evidence that the collectivists are wrong. According to Mr. Lund's articles in the Post-Dispatch, nobody is profiting by the "profit and loss" system and it is good for nobody at all, at all.
O. HECK.

THE BATTLE FOR CODE REFORM.

The people of Missouri have become sick and tired of the Legislature's refusal to plug the loopholes in criminal procedure through which the underworld plays ducks and drakes with life and property.

After more than 15 years of defeat for criminal code reform at every succeeding legislative session, the State is seeing now the first hope of getting something done. It owes this encouragement largely to Representatives Smith and Bennett, who have insisted that the code reform bills killed in committee shall be voted upon by the House.

The first of these votes has just been taken. It is a victory for the people. The House has voted 61 to 39 to perfect the so-called alibi bill, which is endorsed by both the national and State bar associations. The alibi bill has not yet passed. It will require 76 votes for final passage in the House, and if it succeeds there, it must go through the Senate, which has hitherto been a death chamber for code reform measures. But the bill is at least on its way: it is no longer in a pigeonhole of the House Judiciary Committee, which recently voted down 15 code reform bills in a single secret session.

Under the alibi bill, the Prosecuting Attorney of any county or the Circuit Attorney of St. Louis may file a statement at least 20 days before a criminal case is docketed for trial, setting forth the place at which the State will contend the crime was committed, and the time. Within 10 days after this statement is filed, the defense, if an alibi is to be offered, must file a written statement naming the place at which the defendant claims to have been at the time of the crime.

The bill strikes at one of the chief reasons why so many criminals go unwhipped of justice. Time after time, in criminal trials, alibis have been offered which the State has had no means of investigating. The practice has contributed immeasurably to the prostitution of justice. It has made perjury a commonplace. Leaders of the American bar have indicted it as one of the explanations of our American crime wave.

Yet Representative Taylor of Charlton County, leading the opposition to the bill, urged defeat on constitutional grounds. He asserted that it would violate the American principle that accused persons are assumed to be innocent until proved guilty. Of course, it would do nothing of the kind. If an alibi is genuine, it cannot be destroyed by investigation.

The battle for code reform has been going on in the State for almost two decades. We have seen in that time the utter rout of every such reform effort. It is time to end this folly, and we hope to see the present session distinguish itself by ending it. The House should bring out on the floor and pass all the more deserving code bills. It cannot afford to take the side of the criminal world against the people of the State. There is not a member of the Legislature who is not fully aware of the situation. There is not one but knows how society is plagued by kidnapers, bank robbers, highwaymen, terrorists, extortionists and all the scurvy crew which preys upon decent men and women.

Bring out the code bills. Make the members of the Legislature go on record. Let us know once for all if this reform is possible in a legislative session. If it is not, the initiative is the only way out.

ABSAKOKA ET AL.

If the would-be secessionists in parts of South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana have their way, we may be addressing letters to the State of Absaroka (tribal name of the Crow Indian nation). This flight of imagination has sent an Associated Press writer delving into history, to emerge with other weird state names proposed for the American map but never accepted, viz.: Sylvania, Michiganiana, Assensipia, Illinoisia, Polypotamia, Saratoga, Metropotamia and Chersonesus. These were the names suggested by Jefferson in 1784 for states to be carved from the Northwest Territory. Other might-have-beens were Kanawha, later West Virginia; Susquehanna, a proposed offshoot of Pennsylvania; Franklin, which became Tennessee; Cimarron, a southwestern vision. More recently, there was a plan for Lake County, Ind., and Chicago to unite in the State of Illiana.

Of all the geographic dreams, we like Jefferson's best. Imagine how the melody of American prose would have been enriched by a Polypotamia, Metropotamia and Chersonesus Railroad.

DR. MACLEOD AND HIS DOGS.

Dr. J. J. R. Macleod, who died this week in his native Scotland, was one of the world's great physiologists. His name will go down in medical annals and in the chronicles of man's progress as co-discoverer of insulin, by whose use the dread inroads of diabetes have been brought under control. Dr. Macleod and Dr. Frederick G. Banting (now Sir Frederick), working at the University of Toronto, found that the lack of insulin, secreted by the normal pancreas, caused the disease, and discovered how to extract the substance from animals to provide the remedy for human patients. For this achievement, they received the Nobel Prize in 1923, and promptly divided the monetary award with their two chief assistants.

It is timely to note to what extent animal experimentation aided these men in their significant discovery. Said Sir Frederick Banting, as recently quoted on this page: "The work on diabetes and insulin could not have been done without the use of dogs." There are thousands of persons who are now alive only because of these scientists' work, and their debt is owed also to the dogs which made the experiments possible. And diabetes is only one of the fields in which life-saving progress has been made through animal experimentation.

JOURNALISM TEACHING METHODS.

The School of Journalism of Columbia University, New York City, has announced that, beginning this fall, it will function as a graduate school, accepting only holders of the bachelor's degree from approved colleges and universities. At the same time, it will shorten the professional course from two years to one and revise admission requirements so as to call for broad preparation in the liberal arts and social sciences.

This change in the operation of one of the country's oldest schools of the kind is in line with the growing thought among teachers of journalism that nothing should stand in the way of the student's getting a thorough grounding in such subjects as history, economics, government and the languages. It is coming to be more and more realized that college training in the technique of the newspaper calling should supplement, not supplant, desirable work in the academic branches. The successful School of Journalism at the University of Missouri, under the direction of Walter Williams, has increasingly based its curriculum on that view of its function.

The drastic change at Columbia University, which may presage a general overhauling of college journalism courses throughout the country, will be watched with great interest.

SENATOR WISDOM'S IMPOSSIBLE BILL.

Senator Wisdom's bill legalizing horse racing in Missouri has passed the Senate by a vote of 24 to 7. It now goes to the House. As we have repeatedly said, we are not against the legalization of horse racing in principle, but we cannot swallow a bill so obviously designed to put huge profits into the pockets of promoters and operators at the expense of the public.

In a recent analysis of the Wisdom bill, we showed that, from every dollar wagered under it, 13 1/2 cents would be deducted before the horses began to run. This money would be distributed as follows: 11 1/2 cents to the operators, including 10 per cent "take" and 1 1/2 cents for "breakage," or odd pennies left over after winning wagers are computed. The remaining 2 cents would go to the State—25 per cent to be used for animal husbandry, 40 per cent to be divided among the counties and the City of St. Louis (an unconstitutional item), 25 per cent to State and county fair boards, 10 per cent to the school fund.

The idea behind the distribution of the 2 per cent is to capture the support of rural members of the Legislature; it is an old gag, and one that Senator Wisdom has used before in his vain efforts to put a racing bill through the Legislature.

To operate a track within 15 miles of St. Louis or Kansas City, promoters would pay a daily license fee of only $800 in the former case and $500 in the latter. Until last year, Fairmount Jockey Club at Collinsville, Ill., paid $2500 a day. It is now assessed at $1000 a day. Furthermore, the Fairmount operators are permitted to deduct only 6 1/2 per cent from money wagered, and they are required to pay bets to the even penny, thus receiving no "breakage."

The Wisdom bill sets up a racing commission, to cost about $15,000 a year, and it proposes that this special expense shall come from the general revenue fund of the State.

It does not provide for a totalizer to protect the public from manipulation of the pari-mutuel pool. Altogether, it is a measure which, if passed, might create scandals greater than those which caused the cessation of horse racing in Missouri a generation ago.

If we are to have horse racing in Missouri, let us have it under legislation drawn with the idea of public protection rather than of satisfying private greed.

ADD IRELAND.

When Finland, of all nations owing war debts to the United States, stepped up to the counter at the appointed time and paid up, the welkin rang.

Now comes Ireland with an even more impressive demonstration of a quality which, in latter years, is more honored in the breach than in the observance. She proposes to pay back, at $1.25 to $1, the $8,000,000 given, not lent, by American citizens, to the cause of the Irish Republic shortly after the war.

Erin go bragh!

TO CONTRACT'S HIGH PRIESTS, OH YEAH!

Are the contract bridge players of America politicians? Are they like the "dumb, driven cattle," which Mr. Longfellow earnestly exhorted them not to be? Are they meek, obedient authoritarians? We address them at large, of course. We shoot the arrow into the void, so to speak. But they will have to answer. They cannot evade. They are on the spot.

The High Priests of contract have spoken. Who are they? They are the Whist Club of New York, the Portland Club of London, the Commission du Bridge de Paris. And they're singing a new international. It is a craven croon, too. They propose, in a code to become effective on March 31, to change the scoring rules. They have gone soft, these moguls or Pooh-Bahs or panjandrums, or whatever they are. They have decided to reduce the penalties. The vulnerable grand slam is to be a mere ghost of its former grisly self. The cumulative agony of the doubled undertrick is to have its teeth drawn. Blundering will no longer have to bear the old-time fardels. Indiscretion will be lightly tapped on the wrist. Mediocrity's tears will be kissed away.

The erstwhile retribution, it is explained, "temporarily embittered" the victims. That does not half tell it. It moved many of them to violence. It plunged not a few of them into deep and lasting melancholia. But why not? If the sub-normals insist on playing contract, as they dreadfully do, why should they not pay the price?

This new bridge code is strictly white-featherish. It is symptomatic. It is of the very tide and current of the hour. Coddlings the incompetent. Strait-jacketing J. Ruthless Efficiency. Cushioning failure. A piliory for success.

Aus armes, citoyens! The raspberry for the Rajahs. Don't stand for it. No more sops to Cerberus. Cheerio.

GRESHAM SAID IT.

The Governor of Ohio would like to put the FERA Administrator in Davey's locker.

DISCUSSING THE ADMINISTRATION'S "SPENDING POLICIES"

and "increasing deficits" at the Wharton School of Commerce and Finance, the former Director of the Budget, Lewis Douglas, said that the exercise by governments of their "power to coin money for the purpose of paying their bills always has, and always will, destroy the medium of exchange."

The same thing was said, in other words, to be sure, when Shakespeare was packing the Globe Theater, and Ben Jonson, under economic pressure, was writing masques for the court, and Elizabeth was showing the world that a Queen was as good a man as a King. Elizabeth had a financier who was the Alexander Hamilton of his time. She knighted him.

As Sir Thomas Gresham, he told his Sovereign that "bad money drives good money out of the country." That observation, as true now as in the sixteenth century, is known as Gresham's Law, the revised text of which is: "Bad money drives good money out of circulation." The inexorable truth of the pronouncement has been exemplified wherever the folly of state-manship has yielded to the tempter, inflation.

A meteorologist is one who can tell the difference between a thunderstorm and Gen. Johnson on the radio.

The European Crisis

THE events leading up to the new crisis in Europe have been enacted on a stage which extends east and west from London to Tokyo, north and south from Berlin to Rome. They involve all the governments which were engaged in the World War up to April, 1917.

The central theme of the drama is the revival of Germany as a great military power, inspired by the conviction that the peace settlement must be revised because it does not conform to her needs, her aspirations and her pride. Opinions differ as to whether Germany plans to make war to upset the settlement; it is generally agreed that once Germany has realized her full potential military power, she will dominate the European continent and achieve her ends either by war or by diplomacy backed by the threat of war.

With the advent of Hitler, Germany began to rearm. This set in motion several currents in the rest of Europe. The revival of German armaments provoked the revival of the anti-German combination which had been disintegrating in the pre-Hitler period. It provoked new armaments in the countries belonging to that combination. And it stimulated a feverish search for some sort of truce between Germany and her neighbors. It was the formula for such a truce that Sir John Simon was to take to Berlin next week. This is the appellation that Hitler has just upset.

The revival of German armaments is a fact, though it is not known, except perhaps in the inner rooms of European diplomacy, how heavily Germany is now armed. That she is well on the way to being fully armed is, however, generally believed.

The revival of the anti-German combination has also proceeded rapidly, although there have been setbacks. The first and the most important of the setbacks was the withdrawal of Poland and her turn toward Germany. But except for this, the past year has seen the rise of a coalition of Powers which, because they do not wish the settlement to be revised, have a common interest in opposing Nazi Germany.

This coalition has been formed step by step. The French consolidated their alliance with the Little Entente, with Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania. A Balkan agreement was arrived at, embracing both Bulgaria and Turkey. France and Italy decided to settle their principal differences. Russia entered the League and decided to support the existing frontiers of Europe. Russia untied her hands in the Far East by coming to an agreement with Japan. Negotiations are on foot to settle the differences between Italy and Yugoslavia.

Finally, Great Britain, alarmed by the German rearmament and particularly by the German air force, re-entered European politics actively and renewed her entente with France. In all the countries of this combination, there is a rapid development of armaments.

To the Germans, this armed combination appears as an iron ring which holds them in its grip and might crush them. The people of the other countries, the combination is looked upon as the necessary defense against an armed and aggressive Nazi Germany. This tragic predicament has incalculable dangers for all Europe.

The effort to resolve it was based upon a formula devised by the British, the French and the Italians. In substance, it was this: The former Allies were prepared to legalize the German rearmament if Germany would renounce aggression and underwrite her renunciation by legalizing the diplomatic combination to resist aggression. Sir John Simon was going to Berlin to say to Hitler: "We are prepared to recognize your armaments if you will not only take a pledge not to use them for aggression but will recognize the right of the rest of Europe to resist if you commit aggression. You say you wish equality in arms, but that you are devoted to peace. We offer you legal equality if you will legalize the existing peace."

That this formula created a very difficult dilemma for Hitler was plain. He could end the military servitudes of the Versailles Treaty by accepting the territorial terms of that treaty. If he accepted the proposal that Sir John made to him, he would in effect put his own signature to the Versailles Treaty minus the sections devoted to military affairs and to reparations. The Allies were offering him a hard bargain; to obtain legal sanctions for the armaments he was creating illegally, Hitler had to give legal sanction to a territorial settlement which makes impossible the fulfillment of his highest ambitions.

Only the optimists ever believed he would accept it. So little confidence did the British, French and Italians have in his acceptance that they went ahead with their own rearmament. Hitler, finding himself on the defensive, has now turned and has taken the offensive. He has, so far as Germany is concerned, legalized his own armaments without agreeing to anything that Sir John Simon was going to ask him for.

This very bold stroke has undoubtedly put the Allies in a position as uncomfortable as that which Hitler was in when confronted with the proposed truce. They have been defied. Hitler has taken the very thing they were trying to sell him at a high price. He has what he wanted, and he has given up nothing in return. And they have now to decide what they will do about it.

It would be foolish to attempt to guess the outcome. One can be certain only that the tension in Europe will be greatly increased and that the race of armaments will be intensified. What will come of this, no man can say. If the Allies write notes and do nothing further, they will appear impotent and will face the danger that as Germany grows stronger in arms and prestige, their own combination will grow weaker.

If they meet Hitler's challenge by occupying the Rhineland, they take incalculable risks. If they meet the challenge by strengthening their armaments and their alliances, the chances of a great European war are enormously increased. If they accept the accomplished fact and go on to negotiate with Hitler for some kind of truce, they will feel that they have postponed the crisis without softening it.

However it is regarded, the decision which the European nations have to take now is weighted with responsibilities that are awful to contemplate.

Two Kinds of Propaganda

From the New York Post.

CONGRESS is fully justified in its announced probe of utility company propaganda against the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill. At the same time, however, it should be kept clearly in the public mind that this is a legitimate inquiry, not a punitive expedition or an inquisition.

It is essential to establish the difference between legitimate and illegitimate propaganda. The utilities have every right to fight the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. Theirs is the constitutional right of freedom of speech. No one denies it to them, and should there be suggestion that there is anything wrong in their exercise of that right, it is perfectly legitimate for employees of a utility holding company, or any other utility corporation, to protest against the holding company bill. More, it is perfectly honorable for the companies to employ their employees to lend support against a measure which, in their belief, unwisely threatens their livelihood.

Vastly different, however, is propaganda which consists of letters which employees have been browbeaten into writing. No letters of stockholders, based on misinformation spread by utilities, fall within the category of legitimate propaganda.

Little secret is made of the fact that the present drive of the utilities is a nationwide affair, organized and conducted along high-pressure lines. Particularly serious charges of one Congressman against Public Service of New Jersey—that pay of the employees was held up until they had turned a certain number of protest letters, sealed.

It is not only the right of Congress to the duty of Congress, to look into the character of this utility propaganda, but to determine just how much of it is sincere and how much of it is economic blackmailing.

WRITE THE LAWS PRECISELY.

FROM THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL.
DONALD RICHBERG talks sense when he asks Congress to write into the NRA legislation "a definition of interstate commerce which is surely sound."

In any emergency legislation which is to be revised for permanent form, definitions should be much more closely worked out. Policies should be much more clearly set down. We are now in the backwash of a period when broad grants of power were made, without policy or guidance, and the executive departments, pulled this way and that by clamoring factions, mixed things in great shape. The results are not only these results arrive whenever a law is loosely drawn. The administrators of the law, subjected to intense pressure, find being "billed" for tea. Whether the results are in a stew pan on the back of the cookin' stove, or in an iron kettle boiling in the fireplace, the aroma fills the room and finds its welcome way to the nostrils of the passer-by, who, if he be a true nose of South Missouri, recognizes the smell of an invitation to light and come in.

SASSAFRAS TIME.

Arch Hollenback in the West Plains (Mo.) Journal.
ABOUT the earliest and one of the most seductive of all the spring aromas is that of the sweet-smelling sassafras, being "billed" for tea. Whether the fragrant roots are in a stew pan on the back of the cookin' stove, or in an iron kettle boiling in the fireplace, the aroma fills the room and finds its welcome way to the nostrils of the passer-by, who, if he be a true nose of South Missouri, recognizes the smell of an invitation to light and come in.

CHICAGO, MARCH 19, 1935.

HUEY LONG challenged Father Coughlin to a debate in the corner of the new arena, saying that if he is not defeated, he will stop broadcasting.

The challenge is the medieval idea that God is in the corner of anybody in a controversy at the time, if necessary, always and the right.

If a rheumatic and to whom was accused of witch, the idea was that learned judges could deliver a verdict. There was a better way to get the sick and dump her in sack and still water. If she was a witch, if she had stepped in to prove it.

Elsa was heiress to the greatest trust in the empire said. This was very simple to do. This was the emperor's challenge. Elsa simply said: "I will know that God can not back the other up on this right."

Of course, Elsa could not have a battle ax, but it was the rules for anybody who had her. ## NO JOB INSURANCE IN STATE THIS SESSION

Missouri Leaders See No Use

Has Acted.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 20.—Missouri leaders have decided that no unemployment insurance bill will be enacted at the present session, and Gov. Park announced under consideration of the subject when Congress has passed the Wagner-Reed bill.

But are pending in committee of the Senate and House for State consideration on this phase of the President's social security program, but action has been withheld because of uncertainty as to what is expected of the states.

Several hearings have been held, the latest before the Senate Workmen's Compensation Committee yesterday afternoon, but no attempt has been made to push the measure. Owing to the lateness of the session and the fact that there is an indication of early congressional action, leaders of both houses have reached the conclusion that nothing will be gained by going ahead with the pending bills.

The legislature probably will adjourn in less than a month and as the numbers are now on the reduced salary of $1 a day there is no disposition to take up any bills which would prolong the session after the sales tax and other important bills are disposed of.

Representative Whitaker (Rep.) spoke on the sales tax yesterday afternoon suggesting that an immediate adjournment be taken and that if the Governor thought it imperative to pass a tax bill, he would call a special session and "we would work it in 30 days."

Gov. Park said today that even the Wagner-Reed bill should be the power "to protect and defend" interstate commerce, and this "necessarily involves the power of prohibiting the things which are considered hurtful to it and this involves the power to prohibit some forms of interstate commerce which are considered hurtful to the remainder."

As to the proposed postal regulations, Prof. Lindsay Rogers recently pointed out in an exhaustive review that orders excluding things from the mails must be based on the unfitness of the mailed articles for publication or distribution, and not on the source of such matter. In this connection, the Trade Commission said "the question may be raised whether securities issued by a utility monopoly in excess of real investment, which are frequently the embodiment of fraudulent manipulation, may not be barred from the mails. Nothing is better settled than that the use of the mails for fraudulent purposes may be denied."

In the Northern Securities case referred to the Supreme Court declared: "No state can, by merely creating a corporation, or in any other mode, project its authority into other States, and across the continent, so as to prevent Congress from exerting the power it possesses under the Constitution over interstate and international commerce, or so as to exempt a corporation from obedience to any rule lawfully established by Congress for said commerce."

Hang-Over No. 7— Mental Lassitude

Brain workers, desk workers, students, know too well what lassitude does to them. They cannot concentrate, cannot half do their work. Toxicity is the trouble and to neutralize that condition is necessary. A glass of 7-Up sweetens the stomach—the millions of gas particles in 7-Up bombard and purify the internal surfaces. One turns to their work with new zest and sleeps like a top. 7-Up was originated to do this kind of work. Be sure it is 7-Up.

"Dr. Lee, will the new XR yeast clear up my pimples?"

Disappearing of her skin... run-down... constipated, Miss L... wrote Dr. Lee about her condition, said she'd heard of the wonderful results from the new XR Yeast, and asked if it might help her.

New Fleischmann's fresh Yeast corrects Constipation, related Skin Troubles and Lack of Energy—MUCH MORE EFFECTIVELY

PERHAPS, like Miss L., you've tried about everything and don't know what to do about your troubles!

Fleischmann's new XR Yeast has shown remarkable results in skin cases.

The stronger yeast stimulates the juices and muscles of your intestines. Your food is digested better... kept softer... moves more speedily through your system. Then you can gradually cut out cathartics.

With better elimination, the blood is free of the poisons that cause skin trouble. Your complexion should stop "breaking out."

As this yeast tones up your whole system, your appearance is better. You're far more cheerful... have loads more energy, and your skin should take on a healthier

Dr. Lee's reply...

Perhaps it will be helpful to you in improving your complexion! Isn't it heartening to know that so many have regained the clear, attractive skin of perfect health—so easily?

color! For unlike ointments and creams, it gets at the real cause of trouble... poor digestion and constipation!

Start eating this new Fleischmann's XR Yeast today! Eat 3 cakes every day—plain, or dissolved in 1/2 glass of water, a half-hour before meals. At grocers, restaurants, soda fountains. Rich in Vitamins A, B, D and G. Keep on eating it for at least 30 days!

FLEISCHMANN HEALTH RESEARCH DEPARTMENT
595 MADISON AVENUE NEW YORK, N. Y.

DR. R. E. LEE
DIRECTOR

Dear Miss L.:
Not being thoroughly familiar with your case, I naturally cannot prescribe for you. But research work in 25 great clinics and hundreds of cases has proved that Fleischmann's new XR Yeast clears up pimples, boils, and blemishes far quicker than any yeast before.

Leading physicians—possibly including your own doctor—are prescribing XR Yeast for troubles such as you describe.

Common skin troubles are due, in many cases, to poisons in the intestines, and so should disappear promptly as XR Yeast cleanses the system.

Daily, I hear from people whose skin was as discouraging as yours until they discovered this new yeast. I trust it will help you, too.

Very truly yours,

LECTURE ON PRINCIPLES OF FURNITURE ARRANGEMENT

Modern furniture, which shocked everyone but the people who made it, is here to stay, according to Mrs. Christine Holbrook, home furnishings director for "Better Homes and Gardens," who spoke in the music hall at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney yesterday afternoon. "Modern furniture has lost much of its self-consciousness and we can expect to see more of it," she said. Even kitchens are going modern. Colors in hangings, upholstery fabrics and floor coverings have changed from muddy, uncertain shades to clear tones that are either very light or very dark. Browns and reds with names associated with good eating and drinking, fawn, green, and copper shades are very good this year.

JOHN BARRYMORE DENIES EX-WIFE WILL BE HIS GUEST

But Says Her Present Husband Will Accompany Him on Yacht Cruise.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 20.—John Barrymore, who has been recuperating in a New York hospital from influenza, plans to leave for Miami within a week to board his yacht, The Onfanta.

The actor, who returned six weeks ago from India, his father's birthplace, said he planned a cruise in Southern waters. He termed reports that his former wife, Michael Strange, would be among his guests an "unfortunate misunderstanding."

"Michael Strange, my former wife, is not going to accompany me," he said. "It was never planned she should. Her husband, Harrison Tweed, is coming and Diana Barrymore, daughter of Mrs. Tweed and me, will come, too."

Barrymore's present wife, the former Dolores Costello, will be unable to go, he said, because their children, Dolores 5, and John 4, are too young to make the trip.

KINGSHIGHWAY-ARSENAL ST. SCHOOL LOW BIDS $854,332

Aggregate Figure Is 8.9 Per Cent Less Than Estimated Cost of $938,000.

Low bids for construction of a high school at the southwest corner of Kingshighway and Arsenal street, received by the Building Committee of the Board of Education yesterday, aggregated $854,332, or 8.9 per cent less than the estimated cost, $938,000.

Bids were taken for general construction and for various subdivisions of the structure. Until completion on various alternatives may be completed, it will not be determined whether basic low bids were actually the cheapest offers.

High bids aggregated $1,009,798. The board will hold a special meeting March 26, with the intention of awarding contracts. Work was expected to be started next month and finished in a year. This will be the largest school to be erected under the $2,578,000 bond and PWA program adopted last year.

Points Out $3,904,090 Valuation Upset by Tax Board Was Based on Report to State.

The basis of the assessed valuation of property of the St. Louis County Gas Co. for 1935 taxes, filed by County Assessor Neaf, at $3,904,090 and reduced Monday by the Board of Equalization to last year's figure, $3,800,000, was explained by the Post-Dispatch today by the Assessor.

He said the assessment was based on the report of the company to the Missouri Public Service Commission for the year 1934 and included only tangible property, less depreciation from original cost with an additional 40 per cent taken off to allow for what the property would bring on a forced sale.

Company's Figures.
The company's report filed for 1934 making purchases of gas for $7,100 and buildings at $700,000. Neaf said the company's report on these items, representing $740,000 and $420,000, as a total of $1,160,000, was correct.

In assessing the assessment, Neaf said the valuation given by the company was correct, but the company's figures on these items, representing $740,000 and $420,000, as a total of $1,160,000, was correct.

Neaf's Basis.
Neaf said the basis for the 1935 assessment was the company's report for 1934, which was filed with the Missouri Public Service Commission. The company's report for 1934 showed a total valuation of $3,904,090.

NEAF ASSESSED GAS FIRM ON ITS OWN RATE FIGURES

Points Out $3,904,090 Valuation Upset by Tax Board Was Based on Report to State.

The basis of the assessed valuation of property of the St. Louis County Gas Co. for 1935 taxes, fixed by County Assessor Neaf at $3,904,090 and reduced Monday by the Board of Equalization to last year's figure, $682,000, was explained to the Post-Dispatch today by the Assessor.

He said the assessment was based on the report of the company to the Missouri Public Service Commission for the year 1934 and included only tangible property, less depreciation from original cost, with an additional 40 per cent taken off to allow for what the property would bring at a forced sale.

Company's Figures.
The company's report, filed for rate making purposes, listed its land at $71,599 and buildings at $716,689, Neaf said. His assessments on these were, respectively, $26,450 and $412,040, or a total of $438,490 on real estate.

In computing the assessment on personal property, he said, he added the valuations given by the company on plant equipment, which totaled $948,993, and took off 40 per cent, leaving $569,400.

LIKELY TO HEAD NEW YORK 'CHANGE

On mains, service pipes and meters, the company's listing was $4,149,329 and Neaf's assessment, $2,896,200, he said. This made a total personal assessment of $3,465,600.

The Assessor said he excluded from his calculations the company's listing of valuations on organization and franchises, miscellaneous intangible capital, cost of engineering and superintendence, legal expenditures, damages and interest during construction, miscellaneous construction expenses and unfinished construction.

Original Cost Basis.
He pointed out that the company's figures on original cost less depreciation, on which assessments were based, were substantially less than if he had used reproduction cost less depreciation.

"I might add," the Assessor said, "that increasing the assessment meant just 28 cents to me—25 cents for making it and three cents for entering it on the books. And I made two trips to Jefferson City to obtain figures. Some people seem to have the idea that I was increasing my own income in raising the assessment."

The Board's action in reducing Neaf's assessment took place in executive session after Albert C. Laun, tax agent for the company, and legislative agent for Union Electric Company, had presented an appeal. Neaf was the only member of the Board who opposed the cut, Chairman Thatcher not voting.

Mooney's Comment.
County Counselor Mooney, who also was present at the meeting, though not a Board member, and who questioned Laun on the assessment, said the company's representative told the board the company would seek higher rates if Neaf's assessment were permitted to stand.

"Neaf practically admitted to the board he had no qualifications to make the assessment," Mooney said. "He also said he had no help from engineers or anyone who knew anything about the matter. Neaf seemed to be relying on the valuations given by the company to the Public Service Commission. These valuations are for rate making purposes only and could be used by the board only as an admission against interest."

"Neaf has admitted making mistakes in assessments and we're not sure there's not a mistake here. Rather than work any injustice we must hold for the same assessment as last year. Until a better examination can be made we'll have to use that figure. It will be up to Neaf to make that examination."

Asked what was the basis for the 1934 assessment, Mooney replied, "Laun's statement and the fact that Neaf hasn't presented any testimony of experts. Also on the statement of County Surveyor Cruikshank, who went over some of the property with engineers and found it to be of less value even than the company had put it."

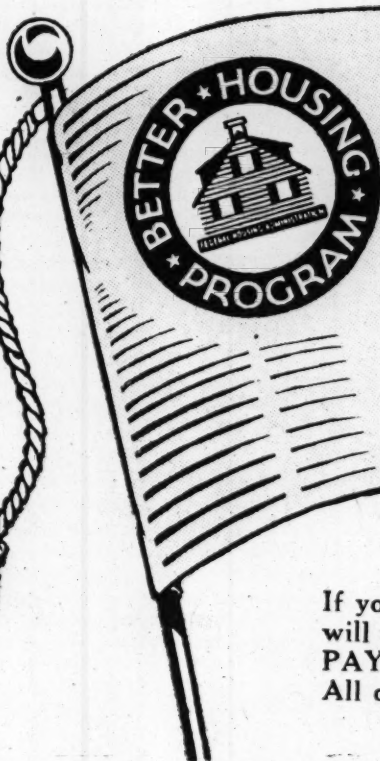

During discussion of the assessment at the meeting, and before the executive session was ordered, Neaf interrupted Mooney's questioning of Laun and said, "I see by the papers you represent the County Court, League of Municipalities and the Taxpayers' Protective Association. Are you representing the gas company, too?"

Mooney shouted back, "If you are insinuating that I represent the gas company, you're a liar." "I'm not insinuating anything. I just asked you a question," Neaf replied.

Neaf, commenting later on the exchange, said, "It seemed to me that Mooney was asking questions designed to favor the company."
In the Executive Meeting.
Neaf recounted today what happened in the executive meeting. He said he asked for a roll call vote on the gas company assessment, but that other members refused to know the vote in an executive session.

"I said I was going to make it known," he went on, "and they charged I wouldn't be a gentleman if I did. I said maybe I'm not a gentleman, but the meeting was not executive anyhow as Mooney, who was not a member, was present."
Neaf said that County Judge Tighe introduced a motion to make the assessment the same as in 1932, about 20 per cent lower than last year's. This motion, he said, was seconded by Judge Wohlschlaeger, but later withdrawn in favor of a motion to fix the figure the same as for 1934.

Odds Change at Lloyds.
No More Fun in War.
A Wonderful Drive.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—LLOYD'S who arrange betting odds for Lloyds insurance take war odds seriously. A few weeks ago they bet 25 to 1 against any war involving England within 12 months. Now they will bet only 10 to 1, and the House of Commons talks of "England's coast defense from air attack."

Nevertheless, it is not unreasonable to hope that in spite of all war preparations, war for the present will be avoided. By showing his willingness to fight, Hitler "saves the face" of the German nation, which refuses longer to be used as an occasional punching bag. The gesture may content him.

The British desiring peace and business may be content to help in the "face-saving" process, and France may be content to increase her fighting air force and strengthen the fence of hostile countries that she is building around Germany.

In old days when nobles and kings went to war, protected by armor, followed by miserable peasants going to death unprotected, war was pleasing.

But when powder and bullets came, able to make holes in the best armor, kings and dukes lost interest in fighting "in person."

What powder and bullets did to the safety of men in armor, airplanes will do to the safety of entire nations, their commerce and their lives.

It was never to be a joke when the "Big Mac" suddenly realizes "war means me."

The "super-cornice" drive that leads from Nice along the mountain side far above sea level, back of Monte Carlo, and down to Mentone is one of the world's beautiful drives. The blue Mediterranean on the right, the snow-covered Alps on the left. The world has many drives and views, lakes, seas, oceans and mountains, from the small Greek hills to the Himalayas, from the Thames to the mighty Mississippi.

Nothing more marvelous, beautiful and impressive in all the earth than the drive that leads through San Francisco's Presidio, the Government military reservation and the beautiful roads on beyond, winding high above the Pacific at the southern side of San Francisco's "Golden Gate." Superlatives are dangerous, but the road from the high hills, down along the edge of the Pacific and back to the beautiful parks that San Francisco has built from what were once barren, red hills, may safely be called the most beautiful drive on earth.

The coast of California, and this most magnificent view, looking out from San Francisco's "Golden Gate," surpass everything else in combined beauty and grandeur.

Looking at the Pacific you see a vast ocean curving around the earth toward the West, thousands of miles. Folded over, on the map, it covers the United States, the Atlantic Ocean and reaches over toward Constantinople.

The Mediterranean is beautiful, the Alps are glorious, but you could pour the Mediterranean into this ocean without raising its level by half an inch, and all of the Switzerland's beauty might be put down somewhere among these West Coast mountains and not attract special attention.

George E. Pancoast, whose business is making better presses print more newspapers, and who has recovered his sight after a period of complete blindness, thanks to Dr. James of Johns Hopkins and Washington, says "Everybody ought to be blind for a year and then recover sight to know how beautiful the world really is." Luigi Corbelli, his Archbishop "I had to wait until I was 90 to know that the world is beautiful."

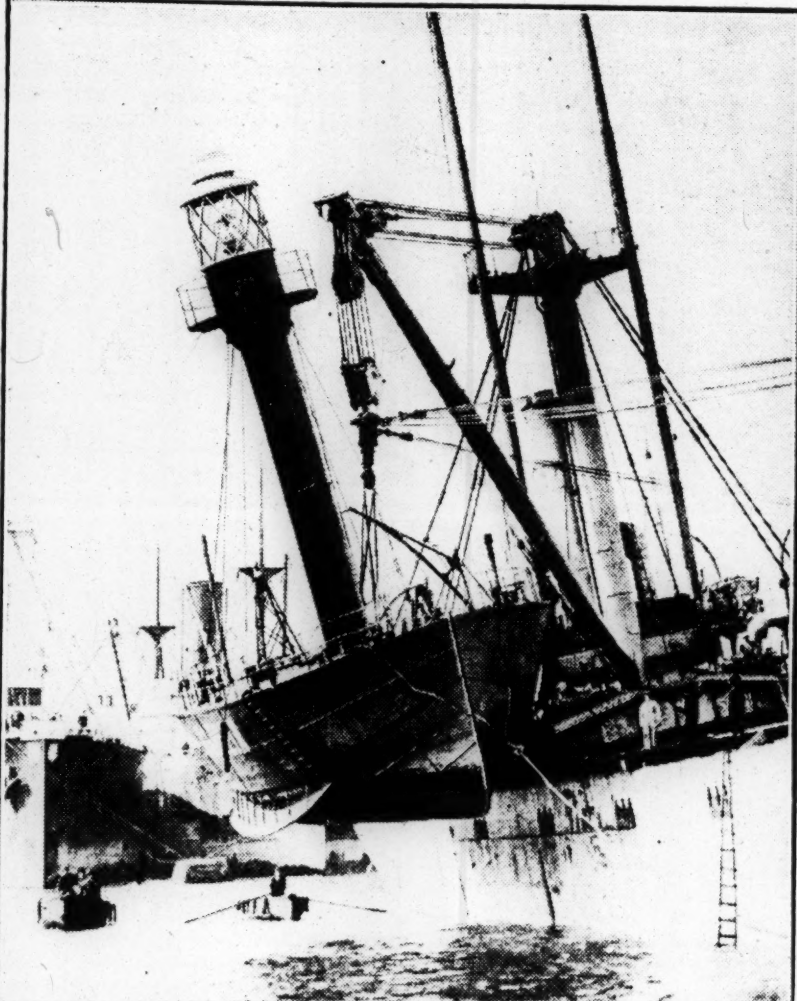

Not waiting for that experience, come and note this summer—the summer season is best on this coast—the fair at San Diego, 600 miles north to Seattle and you will know that the world is "beautiful" without having experienced the sorrows of blindness at great age.

When you have seen Northern California and San Francisco, you will know California or its original spirit.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr: I am writing to you on a subject that means a lot to me. I am going with a girl who is the sweetest girl I have ever had the pleasure to meet. I have been going with her for almost two years, and I ought to be able to judge. This girl has had some pretty bad times in the way of illness, at times and having to look after the family both financially and in other ways. And so I do not think I ought to be responsible for having any more trouble. This is Mrs. Carr. I have had this girl about one year of the work I have been going with her. I have been able to give her a good time. I am not saying that because I want you to pity me. I want to explain to you why I want her to go with me. I want to tell you her feelings. I think she is entitled to some of the best.

Mrs. Carr, I love this girl so much that I think of her all the time. If it had not been for her, I would not know what I would do. I am not saying that because I want you to pity me. I want to explain to you why I want her to go with me. I want to tell you her feelings. I think she is entitled to some of the best.

Treatment in High Pressure Of the Blood

Relaxation, Lessening of All Bodily Strain Among Best Cures.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE important element in the management of a patient with high blood pressure is to persuade him that he will have a good time while the treatment is going on.

Because the important element consists in giving up things. And most high blood pressure patients are not of the temperamental type that they submit gracefully to giving up things.

The whole basis of any plan for management in these cases is to prevent strain to them in any part of the body. And that means rest and even more, it means relaxation.

It means giving up responsibilities and worries and hard work. And the majority of the people with high blood pressure have spent all their lives accumulating responsibilities. Not only their own, but lots of those quite strange to them.

It is a wrench to give them up. They have gone so long complaining about their responsibilities—there is that son of a former business partner that is being put through college, and the clergyman who has the bad winter cough, and the local Institute of Commercial Art—it comes as a great surprise to them to find that they are not glad to give up these loads at all. When they are gone, there will be nothing to complain about—except the weather.

But when the tooth is out, there is really a great feeling of relief. When the relaxation comes, they realize that they haven't really done it for years.

Did you ever read Charles Lamb's "Superannuated Man"—written the day he came home forever? Well, that is the treatment for high blood pressure. Charles Lamb enjoyed it. But then he was a genius, and he didn't give up tobacco.

There are other people who have been cheerful about it. Do you remember the introduction to A. Edward Newton's delightful book of literary essays, "A Magnificent Farce"? "In the midst of the old associations," he wrote, "I discovered I was not in very robust health. This is not my discovery. I paid a physician a handsome fee for making it. His advice was 'Go slow. You have been pelting along for 40 years; it's time to relax. Let someone else do your work. How about smoking?' he continued, 'how many cigars?'

"To this I replied: 'Doctor, there are some things too sacred for words, and there are some things men do not even tell their wives. But, in point of fact, I have always smoked in moderation; never more than one cigar at a time; three after breakfast, four after lunch, and one after dinner. Take up reading didn't someone tell me you had written a book?' Write another one, and then go to Europe, where the criticism of it will not annoy you. My prophecy is that you will live to be a disagreeable old man."

"I sat back. 'Let someone else do your work.' What music was in those words! 'Write a book! What fun! 'Go to Europe.' More fun! I always said I was lucky."

QUESTIONS FROM READERS. B. J. W.: "I have a child eight years old, who has a habit of always chewing gum. Would the excess saliva formed through the continuous chewing tend to bring on heart burn?"

Answer: No, it would tend to have just the opposite effect; to relieve heartburn if it were present.

L. S.: "I have an adenoid in my throat and I am 30 years of age. Am I too old to have it removed? Does it affect the heart and kidneys?"

Answer: An infected adenoid can be removed at any age. An infected adenoid may possibly do damage to the heart and kidneys.

J. S. W.: "Is it possible for an aneurism to be caused by incessant and hard coughing?"

Answer: No. Aneurism is caused by an infectious disease.

THE PRIVILEGE OF UNSELFISHNESS

IN no other country are parents more health-conscious than here at home. They soon begin to think of their children in terms of height, weight, color, appetite, sleeping habits, fresh air, sunshine, and vitamins. No matter what their social and intellectual level, they are responsive to the advances in medicine which are safeguards to sound bodily health. They are no longer satisfied with a doctor who is concerned about the child only when he is sick.

These same parents are no less concerned about their child's manners. They make every effort to train him to do the proper thing. The skill with which he manipulates his spoon and fork at the table, the way he controls his ever-spreading elbows, his behavior when he is called from some bit of interesting play to greet some equally uninteresting old lady whom his mother is anxious to impress, all quite obviously reflect on the parental training. They are, therefore, given due recognition in the rating of the child's virtues.

With reference to moral standards, it is taken for granted that lying, cheating, stealing, destruction of property, truancy, and other a-social types of behavior are not to be condoned. Parents are not unmindful of finding ways and means of dealing with these primitive tendencies so that the child can fit into the social scheme of life without undue difficulty. With so much social pressure brought to bear on him about his manners and morals and with society's approval or disapproval demonstrated in the obvious ways it is, the child is very unlikely to misinterpret what is socially acceptable and what is tabooed. Furthermore, the minds of parents are not confused as to just what they should be doing. They have reference to definite departures from the moral standards of the group.

There are, however, innumerable traits of personality that are less well-defined than honesty and good manners. They develop slowly and insidiously, like a malignant growth. Before his parents realize what is happening, they become dominant in the child's conduct.

Selfishness is one of these traits. It is inherently a part of every child's original make-up. It must be looked upon as an inherent rather than an acquired attitude toward life. It must be overcome, or at least modified, as the child develops if unhappiness is to be avoided.

From the moment a child is born, life naturally begins to evolve around self. Self must be pleased, protected, praised, and served. All the child's earlier reactions toward life are expressed in terms of his little world as he contributes toward his pleasures and what factors in his environment can be utilized to help him avoid pain and discomfort. This primitive attitude toward life is obviously the very essence of selfishness. It can be changed only through training, education and experience.

To modify a social and inherent tendency, of which selfishness is an example, is what is commonly called to socialize the child. We know that the inherent strength of these tendencies varies greatly in different individuals. Some children for instance, are painfully shy, while others seem to be without fear. Jealousy and selfishness may be traits which certain children must battle more or less continually in order to overcome. Selfishness may pass unnoticed for a long while when it is overshadowed by gracious manners, honesty and efficiency. Yet in the course of time, this selfishness becomes so dominant in the personality that it leads to much unhappiness, for the individual child as well as those with whom he comes in contact.

Selfishness is a term not easily defined. Someone has said "A man is called selfish not for pursuing his own good, but for neglecting his neighbor." In other words, the selfish person is one whose own satisfaction in life are obtained without due consideration for the needs or satisfaction of others.

Paradoxical as it may sound, it is nevertheless true that often the most unselfish parents have the most selfish children. This happens because parents in their apparently unselfish efforts to do everything possible for the child, all too frequently deny him an opportunity of doing for himself and others.

When a child has every wish gratified and most of his desires anticipated and is never confronted with the necessity for foregoing any personal pleasures for the convenience, happiness or welfare of someone else, he is being denied a privi-

Paradoxical as it may sound, it is nevertheless true that often the most unselfish parents have the most selfish children. This happens because parents in their apparently unselfish efforts to do everything possible for the child, all too frequently deny him an opportunity of doing for himself and others.

When a child has every wish gratified and most of his desires anticipated and is never confronted with the necessity for foregoing any personal pleasures for the convenience, happiness or welfare of someone else, he is being denied a privilege to which he is entitled. It is every child's right to be confronted with the kind of ordinary everyday situations which would be most likely to help him overcome the inherent selfish tendencies with which he embarked upon life.

Perhaps a child's parents may have to create the opportunities for him to exercise thoughtfulness and consideration for others. Some children, too, will need more training and experience along this line than others. An only child or a child who is very much younger than his brothers and sisters, or a child who has little opportunity of mingling with other children, or an over-dependent child may need special attention or a change in his environment.

Going to nursery school or kindergarten, spending the summer at camp, visiting away from home—all these experiences often give a child who clings to selfishness, a new outlook on life. Yet these things alone are not enough. It is invariably necessary that parents use all their skill and ingenuity to require their child to forego certain pleasures right at home, and subject him to certain deprivation there and, occasionally, to disappointment in order that he may learn to meet similar situations of life in a satisfactory way.

Parents must not be satisfied with what appear to be unselfish and generous impulses in children when they are expressed in words only. Nor should they be contented with those that are carried out without any effort or sacrifice on the part of the child. Such expressions for the concern of others have but little meaning or value.

Billy, for example, comes rushing home from school a couple of days before Thanksgiving very enthusiastic because his class is to make some contributions of foodstuffs to poor families in the neighborhood. He just can't wait to do his part.

THE idea is fine and highly commendable but what actually happens is that he gets a dollar from his father. Perhaps they look over the food ads in the daily papers together and mark off what can be purchased for a dollar. A little later Father gives the bill to the maid with instructions to order the groceries. So far as Billy is concerned nothing else happens. Thoughtlessly he goes off to school the day before Thanksgiving, having entirely forgotten his gift for the needy who a few days before had aroused his sympathy.

Had Billy used some of his own money, made a little sacrifice in one way or the other, given up some of his play time to go to the store, and made a real effort to prepare his gift on his own, he would have been an experience very much worth while. Undoubtedly he would have repeated it with pleasure and satisfaction.

The earliest evidence of selfishness may be noticed when the child is old enough to recognize the fact that he has a service to sell to the family, or that he has a contribution to make to the home life which has a real value.

This service may consist of saving time for his parents, or sparing them irritations and humiliations, or perhaps contributing something in a positive way by doing something useful. The child begins to appreciate that the manner in which he conducts himself is of vital importance to his parents. At about the same time he also begins to recognize the fact that money has a value outside itself. In other words, money is a means and an ever-ready dispenser of comfort in the social scheme of things. Besides being used directly it may be used as a method of acquiring prestige with his group and making companionship more accessible.

THE New York Philatelic Society, Inc., one of the largest philatelic societies in the world, is planning a special exhibition for its twenty-fifth anniversary. The club consists of approximately 300 members.

Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey has donated a cup which will be the chief award of the New Jersey Philatelic Federation stamp exhibition in Atlantic City on April 5, 6 and 7.

NEW ISSUES. AFGHANISTAN—Two new values have been issued, a 50p orange picturing the Liberty Monument at Kabul and a 75p scarlet showing the Khyber Pass.

AUSTRALIA—Three values will be issued for the Silver Jubilee: 2d, 3d and 1s 4d.

BRAZIL—Four values have been issued to commemorate the visit of President Terra of Uruguay. The values are 200r, orange; 1000r, purple, showing the International Bridge Maua as a background for the emblems of the two countries; and the 300r, yellow, and 700r, ultramarine, showing female heads with Liberty caps against a sunburst.

CURACAO—A 10c blue green has been added to the current air mail series. It is Type APL.

GERMANY—For the "Ostropa" philatelic exhibition next June, four special stamps will be issued in one sheet. The values and colors with designs are as follows: 3pf, brown, Alenstein Castle; 6pf, deep green, inner court of the Tannenber Memorial; 12pf, carmine, Königsberg Castle; and 25pf, blue, Heilsberg Castle. Designs for the 1936 Olympic issue are now being judged.

GREECE—The current 3d violet and black and 15d yellow green and black have been reissued with the designs re-engraved.

What a Young Woman Thinks About Things

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

"LET me tell you something," a young woman writes me, "because you do try to understand, and that is all we ask. It does not matter whether you approve or not, provided you get our point of view."

"We young folk today," she continues, "talk about sex and such subjects in a way that seems wrong and shocking to our parents. Maybe it is wrong, but we do not think it is. Please try to understand us."

"The pressure of things, both social and economic, brings this question close to our lives. It is acute and we cannot ignore it. If we are afraid about sex, it is because we want to know where we are for it. Please try to understand us."

"Anyway, we bring it out in the open, shake it free of sneaking and shyness, and discuss it. That means being positive, not negative, about an important factor in life. Don't you see what it means?"

"Today is not a day for mere acceptance. We young men and women have to know facts, make up our minds, and go forward together, strong, sure of each other—proud, determined, heads up, frank and free!"

"Talking about a thing doesn't mean doing it—not by a long jump. It only means clearing the tables, putting all our cards down face up. That is the only way to do—for us; and we think it right."

"It may seem immodest, but it is not. Future ignorance is not in nocence; it is just ignorance. Nine-tenths of our sex talk is just talk, but it clears the air and makes way for other things."

"The same is true of religion. We are religious but the church leaves us cold. It may be our fault, but it is a fact. We are afraid to seem as religious as we are for fear it will be misunderstood."

"We are religious, but not pious. We hate piety, if there is such a word. Anyway, soft-soap sentimentalism makes us sick. We are a realistic generation, in religion as in everything else."

"If my straight talk is all wrong, I feel that you will forgive it. We are not a bad lot—not as bad as we are painted! And maybe, if we understand, we can find our way to a better, wiser life."

Deviled Tomatoes

- Three medium sized tomatoes.
  - One tablespoon dry mustard.
  - One-half tablespoon Worcester-shire sauce.
  - One-half teaspoon salt.
  - One-fourth teaspoon paprika.
  - Dash cayenne.
  - One-half cup cornmeal.
  - One-fourth cup fat.
- Chill the tomatoes thoroughly and cut in rather thick slices. Rub all the seasonings well into the cut surfaces, and dip the slices in cornmeal. Fry them to a crisp brown in the fat. This will make six servings.

Imperforate First-Day Sale Sets Record

Collectors and Dealers Buy $350,000 in Stamps at Washington Agency.

THE Postoffice Department announced that March 15, the first day of sale of the Imperforate Sheets, a record of $350,000 worth of stamps were sold in Washington. The highest single day's sales previously was in Chicago, Aug. 25, 1933, when Century of Progress Souvenir sheets were first placed on sale. The Washington Postoffice handled approximately 70,000 first day covers.

The Philatelic Agency, in order to accommodate the crowds, added 50 clerks and 18 sales windows to its facilities. The largest individual order filled at the agency was for $12,000 worth of stamps for a dealer. There were numerous other orders of $10,000 and $11,000 from various other dealers and collectors.

Most of the sales at the agency were for complete sheets of the Imperforate stamps instead of the blocks. It is intended by the Postoffice Department to have these on sale for at least six months.

Items of Interest. In spite of the fact that the Postoffice Department of Yugoslavia had promised that the demonized stamps would be destroyed instead of sold to dealers, it recently disposed of the remainder of the 1933 "Sokols" commemoratives, nearly 400,000 of each value, at one-half face value to a large dealer.

The annual Balise Stamp Exhibition in Brooklyn will consist of approximately 300 frames. One of the unique exhibitions will be the original engraving used for the one dollar Trans-Mississippi commemorative entitled "Cattle in a Storm."

Mushroom Ring with Scallops Baked Cucumbers Coffee Corn Dodgers Jellyed Apricot Salad

Mushroom Ring. One and one-half pounds of mushrooms. Three tablespoons of flour. Three tablespoons of butter. Four egg yolks. Three egg whites. One and one-half cups of whipped cream. One tablespoon of minced parsley. Salt, pepper and paprika. Chop the peeled mushrooms very fine in a wooden bowl. Lightly rub a skillet with a cut clove of garlic (optional) in the skillet brown the flour lightly, add the butter and in this saute the mushrooms for about 10 minutes. Cool, add the beaten egg yolks, well-beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Season and mix in the parsley and fill a cold, well-buttered ring mold. Bake in a pan of water in a moderate oven for about an hour, not allowing water in pan to boil.

Creamed Scallops. Cut in pieces two and a half pounds of scallops, and allow to slowly parboil in their own liquor, adding a little water and the juice of one lemon, for 20 minutes. Drain and place in the double boiler. Scald one quart of milk with a few outside stalks of celery, one small sliced onion, a bay leaf and a few whole black peppers. Drain. Melt two level tablespoons of flour in a pan of water in a moderate oven for about an hour, not allowing water in pan to boil.

Corn Dodgers. One large cup of apricots. Two packages of cream cheese. One cup of finely cut celery. One cup of chopped pecans. One cup of whipped cream. Two level dessert spoons of gelatin.

One-fourth teaspoon of salt. Drain apricots, reserving the juice. Mash the cheese and mix with celery and nuts. Soften the gelatin in a little cold water, and dissolve in the heated apricot juice. Run fruit through a colander and add to this the dissolved gelatin. Mix together with the cheese, celery and nuts, add the salt and mix well. Then fold in the stiffly beaten cream and pour into a lightly oiled mold. Serve with the following dressing:

Beat the yolks of three eggs light with one-half cup of sugar. Add the juice from a lemon and a half and from one large orange and a pinch of salt. Cook in a double boiler until the consistency of custard. Cool and fold in one cup of whipped cream.

Easier to Handle. If a certain cookie of which you are fond is very difficult to handle in that it sticks to the board and tears easily, try mixing the batter the day before baking and placing it in the refrigerator over night. The job will be a much easier one next day.

Baked Cucumbers. Cut a slice from small rounded cucumbers. Carefully scoop out the pulp leaving only a shell. Sauté the sliced onion and some cut up celery in butter until the onion and celery is soft, add the cut up cucumber pulp and simmer with seasonings for 10 minutes. Fill shells and place in a pan with a little water and bake until thoroughly heated. Sprinkle generously with a soft yellow grated cheese and run under flame long enough to melt the cheese.

Corn Dodgers. Cook one cup of cornmeal in two and one-fourth cups of boiling water for three minutes, making a thick mush. Add one tablespoon of sugar, one teaspoon of salt and two tablespoons of butter. Mix well and allow to cool. Add the beaten yolks of two small eggs, and lastly fold in the beaten egg whites. Drop from a spoon on a hot buttered pan and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Jellyed Apricot Salad. One large can of apricots. Two packages of cream cheese. One cup of finely cut celery. One cup of chopped pecans. One cup of whipped cream. Two level dessert spoons of gelatin.

One-fourth teaspoon of salt. Drain apricots, reserving the juice. Mash the cheese and mix with celery and nuts. Soften the gelatin in a little cold water, and dissolve in the heated apricot juice. There Are Always Fight-Backers

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THEY didn't bust the Versailles treaty until it busted everybody. Bankrupt nations are going to fight and put on a big show. Proving that nations are like individuals. They would rather throw a party than pay their bills.

Once again Thor wins the hammer throw. The four hussmen are off on another dead heat.

Where will they get the money? Why, the granaries are full of venom. The silos are loaded with fear. The treasuries are overflowing with hatred. Three forms of national currency that will finance anything.
